18,000 Reds Killed Or Seized As Finns Annihilate Division

20 WARPLANES OF SOVIET ALSO REPORTED LOST

Moscow Says Army Pounds At Doors Of Viipuri After Isolating Foe's Fort

By The Associated Press.

HELSINKI, Feb. 19—"Annihilation" of the Russian 18th division northeast of Lake Ladoga with 18,000 Russians killed and taken prisoner was announced today by the Finnish high command.

Soviet attacks Sunday on new Finnish positions along the isthmus front, scene of the war's bitterest fighting, were said to have been repulsed with Russian losses equal to about one batallion.

Twenty Russian warplanes were said to have been shot down.

(A battalion usually numbers 500 to 600 men.)

"A great victory" for the Finnish forces northeast of Lake Ladoga was claimed where the communique reported capture of a strongly-defended Russian position and large quantities of war materials.

Twenty Tanks Taken

Twenty tanks, 36 guns of various types, 17 tractors, 32 field kitchens, 250 other vehicles and 200 other vehicles were listed as booty of the battle.

"After tenacious fighting our troops have thus piece by piece completely annihilated the enemy's 18th division which they had surrounded after it had advanced via Uoma to Syskyjarvi," the communique said.

Syskyjarvi is about 15 miles from the Russian frontier.

The Russian division had been strongly reinforced, the Finns declared.

Moscow Says Army Nears Viipuri Gates

By The Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Feb. 19 — A Soviet communique today claimed Red army troops hammered almost at the doors of Viipuri, Finland's second largest city, after isolating Fort Moivisto, western anchor of the Mannerheim line.

Viipuri, center of Karelia Christianity for 700 years and a prime objective of Russian troops since the start of the war, appeared hard pressed Soviet officials said, as the Soviet troops reported capture of Johannes, Maksalathi and Somme on the Finnish costal railway.

Somme is only about six miles from Viipuri and a Russian communique Saturday reported the Red army had reached a point about four miles from Viipuri in another sector to the east.

Occupation of the coastal railway towns apparently snapped Koivisto's overland communication with Viipuri, for the three towns are north of the fort.

Would Be Blow To Finns

Loss of Koivisto would be a heavy blow to the Finns because its coastal defense artillery has been turned inland at times to harrass Russian lines of communication.

"The enemy keeps retreating," the Russians reported.

The position of the towns reported captured indicated the Russians are piercing deep into the Mannerheim line.

475 Forts Claimed Seized

The Russians asserted they had captured "475 defensive fortifications, including 92 iron and concrete forts" during the last week Feb. 11 to 18. Intensity of the Russian drive was seen in the Soviet claim 313 of these Finnish fortifications fell in two days, Feb. 17 and 18.

The Finns said they shot down 24 planes, bombed congested enemy columns and concentration points Saturday.

Swing Is Dead! Long Live Swing!

SKIN-BEATER (Drummer)

OUT OF THE WORLD (Giving Perfect Performance)

RUG-CUTTER (Expert, Enthusiastic Dancer)

WHAT'S happened to swing? Did the end of the 1930's mean the end of the jitterbugs, too? And if swing is dead, what next?

The Associated Press asked these questions in a dozen key cities, then turned Swing Enthusiast Paul Ross loose to check and interpret the answers. He's written a three-part report, of which this is the first. Succeeding articles tell the exciting story of how hot jazz climbed from New Orleans joints to Carnegie Hall and what's likely to happen to it now.

IN THE GROOVE (Player, Music Are Right)

By PAUL ROSS
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 — Well, it looks like it's happened. Swing is "dead"—as a national craze.

For years the wise boys said swing was on the way out. They were premature, that's all. In the last few months something certainly has happened to swing and the swing fad.

An appearance of Benny Goodman and his magical clarinet is no longer the signal for a riot by a mob of goggling, agitated kids. But the other night, in White Plains, N. Y., a grinning, clowning band leader with a 4-h-club personality and rather nondescript "sweet" music to offer pulled 12,400 cash customers into a hall, turned away 3,000 more. His name is Kay Kyser.

A survey by the Associated Press in various key cities shows an astonishing decline in jitterbug dancing.

Yes, something has happened. But what, and why, and does it mean anything?

"Swing got to be a big word," says Dave Kapp, an executive of the Decca Record Co. That's part of the tale.

It got to be so big that, as a label, it could pay off: To the entertainment industry in cash, to publications in grand copy and swell pictures, to the smart set in something different to do, to the older generation in amusement and shocks, to the kids in self-expression, in being a badge, a "cause."

"You couldn't give 'em enough," says Philip Silverman, manager of

Council Awaits Busy Session Tonight Despite Small Docket

An active session of council was seen for tonight, although only two pieces of legislation were to be prepared for consideration.

Councilmen are expected to bring discussion of the 1940 appropriation ordinance to the floor in preparation to passing it at a special meeting later in the week.

Although no mention of "numbers" has been made publicly by councilmen since their blast at the alleged "racket" at a meeting two weeks ago, several councilmen at that time threatened to bring the matter to the floor again unless something definite were done to "drive the numbers out of the city."

No 'Numbers' Arrests

Since the meeting two gambling arrests have been made, but none for writing or illegal possession of lottery tickets.

The two pieces of legislation being prepared today by City Solicitor Carroll P. Lynch concern the abolition of jobs at the waterworks pumping station and at the incinerator plant and the creation of new positions.

At the pumping station the legislation will abolish the jobs of a chief engineer, three operators and a laborer and create a chief operator and three operators, but no laborer.

At the incinerator plant the job of superintendent will be abolished and replaced by a foreman. Both changes are said to be economy measures accounting for reductions in salaries of from $20 to $30.

The legislation was agreed upon unanimously at a caucus meeting Thursday night when the pumping ordinance was discussed.

The appropriations ordinance also will carry a salary provision for eight more firemen and if all councilmen agree, may add two more policemen.

The addition of policemen was opposed by two members at the caucus. This feature will be ironed out to the satisfaction of all members before the ordinance is brought up for passage, members of the finance committee stated.

100 SCHOOL CHILDREN FOUND SAFE IN STORM

By The Associated Press.

LOBBOCK, Tex., Feb. 19 — The 100 school children, unheard of for some time when snow caught three busses in which they were riding, later were found safe.

The southern Texas panhandle today continued to dig out of the flash blizzard which struck Saturday. Army trucks laden with medicines, blankets and food threw their weight against huge drifts over the week-end to bring assistance to at least 20 persons marooned overnight near Tahoka, a small town 35 miles south of here.

G.O.P. MAPS AID TO INDUSTRY IN STUDY REPORT

Balanced Budget Advocated In 11 Guiding Principles Founded On Survey

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—Recommendations for aiding American industry and achieving a balanced budget in 1942 are contained today in 11 "guiding principles" offered the Republican party for possible inclusion in its national platform.

Reporting on a two-year survey, a special program committee of more than 200 Republicans pictured the new deal as "misunderstanding economic America" and falling into "fatalism of outlook".

It outlined the Republican position as favorable in expanded "free enterprise" in the belief that "our private economy has not come to a dead end."

Available To Committee

The 28,000-word document will be available to the platform committee at the June 24 convention. There is no indication whether the proposals actually will be incorporated in the platform, since they are merely advisory and since creation of the program committee—headed by Dr. Glenn Frank—was attended by disagreement among party leaders.

The report, labeled "a program for a dynamic America," outlined these general principles:

1.—The United States should keep out of war through a "tight rein of our emotions" and "scrupulous neutrality".

2.—Defense forces should be sufficient to protect the western hemisphere from aggression.

Backs Trade Agreements

3.—Reciprocal trade agreements should be approved by both houses of congress. (Republican congressmen are seeking to require only senate ratification.)

4.—The national labor relations act should be amended and the administrative and judicial functions of the labor board separated.

5.—The farm program should try to increase interchange of farm and city goods by better correlation of prices.

20 Percent Spending Cut Asked

7.—A 20 percent reduction in federal spending "should not be too difficult," and coupled with a higher national income, should bring a balanced budget in 1942.

8.—Higher surtax rates on individual incomes should be cut; so-called business levies should be abolished; future federal and state bonds should be taxed.

9.—The President's emergency monetary powers should be repealed; the gold standard should be restored.

10.—All in need should receive adequate relief, administered by the local governments through federal grants-in-aid.

11.—Social security legislation should be studied with a view to expansion and better administration.

Dr. Frank said the report bears "the clear majority approval" of the program committee. While signed by 209 members, expressions of "individual judgments" taking exceptions to some parts were turned over to the Republican national committee.

The choice today, the report asserted, lies between a system of free enterprise and a "politically-planned and politically-dominated economy."

STOUFFER SAYS JAIL BONDS REQUIRE VOTE

County Board Delays Order To Raze Old Building

Special To The Review.

LISBON, Feb. 19 — Prosecutor Karl Stouffer has issued two rulings in connection with the county's jail problem, it was revealed today as commissioners continued to delay orders for razing the abandoned structure.

The prosecutor stated bonds could not be issued for a new jail without a vote of the people, citing a section of the general code which states in part: "Provided that, except by vote of electors, bonds shall not be issued by any county in an amount exceeding $20,000 in any period of five years, for the acquisition, construction, improvement, enlargement or extension of any county building, including acquisition of site."

Mr. Stouffer gave the opinion in regard to ownership of the property that "there is ample evidence the prison has been constructed on this site provided for public grounds, for more than 100 years, and therefore, there has been an effective dedication of this site for public purposes and the title at present time rests with Columbiana county in trust for such use."

Meanwhile, the commissioners are still delving for ways and means for the construction of a new prison and bids are being received for the razing the old building.

The county is boarding prisoners for 60 cents a day in Mahoning county jail, transporting the prisoners back and forth for court appearances.

Rain, Rising Mercury Make Sea Of Slush Of Four-Inch Snowfall

DRIZZLING rains today left a sea of slush in the East Liverpool area after snow as deep as 4 inches made foot and highway travel hazardous, disrupted telephone and electric power service and caused slight property damage.

A heavy, wet snow, which started to fall shortly after noon Sunday continued without letup until almost 9 last night, covering streets with a deep mixture of slush and ice and transforming trees and shrubbery into silvery story-book scenes.

In many instances, snow-ladened branches hung low over streets, hampering traffic, while firemen reported the cave-in of a garage roof. Power company crews repaired a short circuit that extinguished street lights in the Pleasant Heights sector Sunday night.

Temperatures Go Up

While snow fell, temperatures rose. At dam 8 the mercury soared to 41 at noon today after a low of 32 Sunday night. The U. S. weather bureau at Swaney airport had 38 at noon, following a minimum of 32. Both stations measured 4 inches of snow.

The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. reported approximately 100 telephones out of order yesterday when snow snapped "feeder" lines from main circuits.

The roof on a garage owned by B. E. Allen at 732 Minerva st. collapsed from the heavy weight of the snow shortly before 4 p. m. Sunday. The squad car from the Central fire station responded to a call. The sides of the building also collapsed as the roof fell. The structure was unoccupied.

City street crews and all additional relief labor available were called out early today to clear the slush and snow from downtown streets, especially at intersections.

The road scraper, rented for the WPA street paving program, was brought into service to clean deep snow from main streets and crews

$2,131 Remains Unpaid For 152 Delinquent Users

City water department officials today announced $1,388 have been collected for January bills since shutoff notices were sent to delinquent consumers Jan. 31.

The amount brings to $27,867.32 the collections for water rents for the last quarter of 1939, and leaves $2,131 yet to be paid by 152 consumers. Fifty-eight of these have made arrangements to pay, however.

$3,519 Was Delinquent

A total of $3,519.67 was delinquent when the collection period, with extensions, ended Jan. 31. At that time the water department sent notices to all delinquents that service would be discontinued if water bills were not paid.

Crews began shutoffs within a few days and many consumers, warned that service was to be shut off, either paid at once or came to the office and made satisfactory arrangements to pay, officials said.

Actually, the department, reported, very few shutoffs were necessary. The program, however, will be carried out until all bills are cleaned up, the officials promised.

Work has been hampered in the last week by adverse weather conditions but will be resumed in full force today and Tuesday, Frank K. Robinson, clerk of the department said.

Slate Meter Readings

Also meter reading for the first quarter of 1940 will begin Tuesday, Mr. Robinson said. Thomas Russell and Floyd Tice will be meter readers.

Mr. Robinson, who has been ill for a week, today began preparation of a recapitulation of receipts and expenditures for the department for the January collection period.

Officials said the recapitulation is expected to show a higher percentage of collections than any collection period for several years, but possibly higher expenditures for repairs.

DONAHEY SNUBS 'FAVORITE SON'

Ohio Senator Declares Role 'Would Be Subterfuge'

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—Declaring "acceptance would be subterfuge," Sen. Donahey refused today to be Ohio's favorite son candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The senator had been indorsed for the nomination by the state central and executive committees which, however, went on record as favoring renomination of President Roosevelt if Mr. Roosevelt desires it.

"I appreciate the honor tendered me by the Democratic executive and central committee but in good conscience I am compelled to reject same," Donahey said in a statement.

Garner May Enter Name

Some advocates of a third term had been hopeful Donahey would run as a favorite son and then, if Mr. Roosevelt were a candidate again, that the Ohio delegation would be turned over to the chief executive.

Spokesmen for Vice President Garner have indicated that he might enter his name in the Ohio primary in May if Donahey were not a candidate.

Meanwhile, the Ohio organization empowered a committee of five—including Donahey—to select a slate of 16 delegates-at-large, each to have a half vote at the

Destroyer Daring Is Victim Of Torpedo; 2 Nazi Ships Captured During Dash

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 19—Great Britain and Germany traded blow for blow today in furious naval warfare.

While the British pridefully counted two captured German merchant ships as prizes of their blockade, the admiralty disclosed the British destroyer Daring had been torpedoed and sunk with a loss of 157 lives.

The enemy powers, meanwhile, waged a legal battle over the fate of the German prison ship Altmark, the British pressing for internment of the vessel in Norway, where a British destroyer cornered her Friday, and the Germans demanding her release.

Sixth British Destroyer Lost

The Daring was the sixth destroyer lost by Britain since the outbreak of the war. In all, the British fleet has lost 25 vessels, of which 14 were capital ships, destroyers or submarines.

Where or when the 1,375-ton Daring was sunk was not disclosed.

She carried four 4.7-inch guns, seven smaller guns and eight 21-inch torpedo tubes. She was completed Nov. 24, 1932, at a cost of about $1,125,000 and could attain the exceptional speed of 38.2 knots.

Among those lost were her master, Commander S. A. Cooper.

The German high command communique in Berlin reported the sinking of a destroyer and an undisclosed number of conveyed merchant steamers and tankers "in various sea areas" yesterday.

Two of six German ships reported to have gambled against the British cordon in a dash from Vigo, Spain, were brought into a British west coast port—the 8,000-ton Morea, loaded with manganese ore, and the 8,542-ton Rostock, the British announced.

The Morea's crew of 28 men and seven officers were British prisoners. There was no word on the Rostock's crew or cargo and no explanation of the capture of either ship.

Six merchant ships—two British and four neutral—were week-end

NORWAY LEGISLATORS CONFER ON 'INCIDENT'

By The Associated Press.

OSLO, Feb. 19—The Norwegian parliament was called to meet today to hear an official statement on the Altmark incident.

Announcement that a statement will be read to the legislators was made after a meeting of the foreign affairs committee of parliament with Foreign Minister Dr. Halvdan Koht, other members of the cabinet and experts on international law.

HOUSE TO OPEN TRADE DEBATES

Both Sides Claim Victory In Major Battle Of Session

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—With a small band of Democrats joining the Republicans in opposition, house members lined up today for one of the biggest battles of the session—renewal of the administration's reciprocal trade program.

Both sides claim victory. They agreed, however, that whatever the outcome, the trade pacts will be an issue in the election campaign, for President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull have made the program a keystone of their foreign policy.

Debate To Run Through Week

Leaders decided to start debate late in the afternoon and to let it continue throughout the week on a resolution extending the program for three years after its June 12 expiration date.

Rep. Coffee (D) of Nebraska asserted that 40 Democrats will vote with the Republicans on an amendment to require senate ratification of each trade pact. The present law lets the President and the state department conclude the agreements.

Rep. Boland of Pennsylvania, the Democratic whip, expressed the view that Coffee's amendment and all others will fail.

Would Arouse Public

Some of those leading the Republican fight said there was no chance of killing the entire measure in the house. Their hope, they said, centers on the senate ratification amendment and on arousing popular opposition to the point where the senate will defeat the program.

Coffee asserted that if his amendment were adopted, he would vote for approval of the extension measure. Many advocates of the trade program, however, contend that it would be nullified by a provision for senate approval of each treaty.

While the house turned to the trade problem, the senate is occupied with minor legislation. Committees in both chambers are going ahead with their study of appropriation bills in an effort to cut federal spending.

STATE ALLOWS TAXING EXTENSION TO FEB. 24

Special To The Review.

LISBON, Feb. 19 — Olen Dawson, Columbiana county treasurer, said today the state has granted an extension until Saturday, Feb. 24, inclusive, for the county's current tax-paying period which ordinarily would have closed Tuesday.

Mr. Dawson received the extension because of the weather conditions, as snow-blocked roads prevented many from appearing at the courthouse, which will be closed Thursday for Washington's birthday.

The mailing of tax statements, however, has sped up collections and there is no waiting-line.

The collection is proving successful Mr. Dawson said, for both current and delinquent taxes which were paid under the Whittemore contract. The collection opened on Jan. 20.

THEATER DOORS WILL OPEN AT 9 A. M.—LECTURE WILL START AT 9:30 A. M.

AVERAGE WIFE IN OHIO TERMED 'GOOD' COOK

Special To The Review.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 19—It is not to be assumed that the average Ohio homemaker is not a good cook or does not like to cook when considering the fact that 13 percent of all restaurants in the United States are located in Ohio, A. C. Mechling, Columbus, president of the Ohio State Restaurant association declared in a statement here today.

In his opinion the average Ohio housewife not only is an excellent cook but she enjoys preparing tasty dishes for her family. But to reward her for the swell job she does, her husband probably takes her and the family out to dinner more often than his fellows in other states.

And, too, Ohio being a busy industrial, as well as agricultural state, more men and women eat their noon lunches in restaurants than men and women in most other sections of the country.

That probably acounts for the fact that there is one restaurant in Ohio for every 300 persons within its borders, Mr. Mechling points out.

New Leftover Tip

Here is a new leftover tip: Shape hash into ½ inch cakes, press with a spoon, arrange on a heated platter and cover with hot leftover gravy with chili sauce in it—1 tablespoon of chili sauce for each ½ cup of gravy.

TAKING OFF THE HEAT

Food will cook just as fast over a moderate flame as over a high one, after it has started to boil. You can save fuel by watching these details around the kitchen.

Simple Foods Can Be Made Delicious, Tasty

There's always a place in the menu files for good, satisfying simple dishes. Budget economy need not be synonymous with dull, uninteresting food. Simple foods can be delicious.

Tamale pie is a grand dish and economical, for the main ingredient is a pound of beef, yet the amounts will yield eight servings. Pie is made with two cups boiling water, teaspoon salt, one-half cup cornmeal, one-fourth cup bran, two tablespoons fat, one finely-minced garlic clove, one pound ground beef, one tablespoon minced green pepper, two and one-half cups tomatoes, tablespoon chili powder, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and one-third cup grated cheese.

To boiling salted water, add cornmeal and cook until thick. Add bran and cook in double boiler 20 to 30 minutes. Pour into shallow greased pan and cool. Melt fat; add garlic, cheese and green pepper. Brown slightly. Add remaining ingredients except cheese. Simmer for about 15 minutes or until juice from vegetables has partially evaporated. Line sides and bottom of greased casserole with strips of cool mush.

Pour in meat mixture. Cover with grated cheese. Brown in 400° F. oven 10 minutes.

A CREOLE HODGE PODGE

Jambalaya is a Creole hodgepodge that is tangy and toothsome. Here's a swell version of it that takes care of leftover chicken, turkey or duck. Make it with a five-ounce jar of cocktail frankfurters, three tablespoons bacon fat or butter, one-half cup rice, washed and drained, two-thirds cup diced celery, one cup diced onions, two chicken bouillon cubes, one and three-fourths cups water, one cup tomato juice, dash of black pepper, pinch of dried thyme, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, and one cup diced cooked chicken, turkey or duck.

Saute the frankfurters in one tablespoon of the fat. Remove frankfurters. Add remaining fat and rice. Saute until browned, stirring constantly. Add celery and onions, and saute until lightly browned. Add bouillon cubes dissolved in boiling water, then remaining ingredients, except frankfurters and chicken.

Simmer covered, without stirring, 20 minutes. Add chicken and frankfurters and mix lightly with a fork. Add more water if necessary and cook covered 10 minutes longer or until rice has absorbed liquid.

A Grand Dish

Scrappy Scrapple is our own name for a grand dish. It is made with one onion, one carrot, one-half green pepper, one cup yellow corn meal, tablespoon salt, three and one-half cups boiling water, one cup chopped peanuts, oil for frying. Mince onion, carrot and green pepper (medium sized one).

Add cornmeal to salted boiling water slowly, stirring constantly until thick. Add minced vegetables. Cook over hot water for an hour, then add peanuts. Pour into oiled loaf pan, chill. When cold, slice and fry until brown. Serves six.

Frozen Coffee Cream is a simple dessert that is good enough to grace any party meal. Make it with three-fourths cup sugar, teaspoon cornstarch, three-fourths cup double-strength, freshly-made hot coffee, one cup heavy cream. Mix sugar and cornstarch; add hot coffee. Cook 20 minutes over hot water, stirring frequently. Cool. Whip cream and fold in. Pour into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator. Freeze, stirring occasionally.

COLD DAYS CALL FOR WARM FOOD

Soups, Casseroles, Ragouts Advised For Your Menus

Hot stuff for cold days! Still plenty of brisk weather ahead, so serve plenty of hot foods, such as soups, stews, ragouts, casserole dishes and even salads.

Potato salad served hot with a hot dressing on cabbage and chicory is good. Desserts may be hot, for now's the time for the steamy pudding and foamy sauce. Between times, there's hot coffee, hot punch and, as a nightcap, hot grapefruit juice.

Chicken gumbo for six is the message of the first recipe, and mighty good it is, too. Use a 4-pound chicken, five tablespoons cooking oil, one quart okra pods, a half cup chopped onion, two tablespoons chopped parsley, two bay leaves, one and a half teaspoons chili powder, two and a half to three cups canned tomatoes, two cups boiling water, two teaspoons salt, pepper, four cups cooked rice.

Heat Oil In Kettle

Disjoint chicken. Heat oil in large kettle. Brown chicken in it and remove from utensil. Remove ends of okra pods and cut crosswise in one-third inch pieces. Put onion and okra in fat in kettle and cook until onion is yellow. Add chicken and remaining ingredients except rice; cover.

When boiling, reduce heat and cook until chicken is tender, about two hours. Remove chicken and cut from bones in medium pieces. Return to gumbo, cook 15 minutes longer. Serve in soup plates with a mound of rice in each plate.

Meat roll with green pea sauce requires a half cup bran, three-fourths cup buttermilk, one and a half cups flour, teaspoon baking powder, a half teaspoon soda, teaspoon salt, a half cup shortening. For the filling use three cups ground cooked meat, one-fourth cup tomato catsup and teaspoon salt. Soak bran in buttermilk.

Like Coarse Corn Meal

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and soda together. Cut in shortening until mixture is like coarse corn meal. Add soaked bran; stir until dough follows fork around bowl. Turn onto floured board; knead lightly; roll or pat into rectangle one-fourth inch thick. Combine meat, catsup and salt. Spread in thick layer over dough.

Roll like jelly roll; place in baking pan and bake in 425° F. oven about 30 minutes. Serve with green pea sauce. Yield: 10 servings. For the sauce, make a white sauce with two tablespoons each butter and flour and a cup of milk. Add two tablespoons minced pimiento, a half cup cooked peas and a half teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper.

OVEN SUPPLIES BACON AND MUFFIN TOGETHER

If there's anything in the way of foods that men love, it's hot muffins! When muffins are on the breakfast menu, why not utilize the oven for cooking the bacon, too?

It takes 25 minutes for the muffins to bake and 20 minutes for the bacon to cook, so by the time you have arranged the bacon in a cool dripping pan and put the pan in the oven, muffins and bacon will be ready to come out. When large quantities of bacon are to be cooked the oven method is quick and convenient. The oven temperature of your stove should be 400 degrees F.

Lunch Tricks

Children Enjoy Surprises; Here Are Some Ideas That Are Different

WITH half the school year over, it's time to freshen up a bit on your lunch menus. Children always like surprises, and new things to eat at noon help to break the winter's monotony. So let's think up 'eats' that are 'different.'

Cold weather calls for something hot. Soups made with milk, are ideal and are quick to prepare. Simply stock up on half-a-dozen flavors — celery, pea, asparagus, and chicken-noodle, for example—then, instead of adding water, use certified or pasteurized milk. Blend the milk with the condensed soup before you put the saucepan over the fire. Heat till it's piping hot, but don't let it boil.

With the milk soup as the hot dish, the remainder of the lunch might include one "protein-filled" sandwich (egg, meat, fish or cheese), and one "vitamin-filled" sandwich (chopped or mashed fruit, or shredded raw carrot and spinach moistened with mayonnaise).

For the "energy-food", in addition to the bread, add cookies, a generous slice of iced loaf cake, or some wholesome sweet.

Keep 'em guessing as to what it's going to be each day.

And here are some new sandwich-filling combinations, designed to appeal to young appetites:

Tuna fish, flaked, and combined with chopped stuffed olives and mayonnaise. Spread on buttered white bread and add shredded lettuce.

Sardines, mashed and blended with lemon juice, mayonnaise and chopped hard-cooked eggs. Spread on buttered rye bread — include crisp lettuce.

Liver, cooked and mashed, combined with chopped bacon, seasoned with salt and pepper and blended with cream. Spread on buttered rye or wheat bread—sprinkle with shredded raw carrot.

Peanut butter, combined with jam and chopped prunes. Spread on a slice of wheat bread—top with a slice of white bread.

Cream cheese, blended with mashed stewed figs, stewed apricots or prunes. Spread on white or wheat bread.

Currant jelly, broken up with a fork and combined with ground nuts, raisins, dates, and moistened with orange juice. Spread on buttered white bread.

APPLE BUTTER SNACK

Apple butter as a filling for Graham crackers will make a good between-meal snack or a lunch box filler for the youngsters. Its healthful, too.

LENT HELPS CUT FIGURE, BUDGET

Heavy Food Not Required, Just Right Combination

Lent, with its lighter menus, is a grand time for trimming the figure as well as the household budget.

Food need not be heavy to be nutritious, but it should be served in the right combinations to count for health and taste appeal. There's an army of meat substitutes that can be called out for Lenten service.

A Mystifying Tang

Swiss fondue is one. It has a mystifying tang that makes it a dish for epicures. Beat 4 egg yolks, mix in 1 cup soft bread crumbs, ⅔ cup grated cheese (rather zippy kind), ¼ teaspoon dry mustard (this adds the mystery flavor), ⅔ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon paprika. Then add 1 cup boiled rice, ½ cup diced cooked celery, 2 tablespoons chopped onions, 1 cup hot milk and 4 egg whites, beaten. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake 50 minutes in a slow oven—325 degrees. Serve in the baking dish as the main party of a luncheon or dinner menue. For dinner accompany by a creamed green vegetable, fruit or vegetable salad, hot bread and a light fruit and cookies for dessert.

Mushrooms Maryland

Here is a new dish featuring mushrooms for a Lenten dinner. It is called mushrooms Maryland. Put 3 hard cooked eggs, sliced, and 1 cup sliced, lightly browned mushrooms into a savory cream sauce(two cupsful).

Pour over toast, buttered, placed in a shallow low baking dish. Cover with a cup of peas and 2 tablespoons chopped pimientos, mixed together. Sprinkle with 4 tablespoons of Parmesan cheese and slip under the broiler 5 minutes to brown.

With this serve grapefruit avocado salad, buttered spinach and any family favorite dessert. Orange pie is delicious, so is Fruit Bavarian pudding.

Fluffy salmon cakes are almost a member of the fritter family. Mix a cup of salmon with 2 cups mashed potatoes (leftovers will do), beat in 2 eggs, seasonings (salt, pepper, celery salt), and 2 tablespoons fat, melted. Fry like fritters in deep hot fat for 3 minutes. Serve on a platter and surround by creamed asparagus. With jellied relish salad and deep dish cherry pie, here's a meal that will make very favorable impressions.

450 GIRLS STUDY AS HOMEMAKERS AND GOOD COOKS

Schools Here, In Wellsville, Midland Offer Training In Housekeeping Art

Young men of the East Liverpool district who may be considering matrimony may do well to ask themselves, "What kind of a homemaker will she be?"

More of these prospective husbands are assured now of a kitchen-tested mate than in previous years, because 450 girls are enrolled yearly in domestic science and home economics classes in East Liverpool, Wellsville and Midland schools.

Sure, anyone's liable to grab off a cook "like mother was," but teachers are removing the element of chance when it comes to mealtime.

Preparing For Wifehood

The girls are being trained in the best and newest methods of cookery, in the economics of running a household, in decorating the home—in fact, preparing them for the role of capable wives.

Approximately 110 girls are studying the art of homemaking in the domestic science classes of East Liverpool High school.

For a majority of these students, limited to freshmen and sophomores, cooking and sewing perhaps will be their occupation in later life, especially if they marry.

About 45 of the students in the home economics course are freshmen. There are two instructors, Miss Ruth Winland, in charge of the cooking and food department, and Miss Evelyn Mackall, directing the sewing, home furnishing, child care and other matters entering into the proper care of the home.

Four Instruction Periods

Each student in the department receives four periods of instruction each week. The fifth day's work is devoted to gymnasium and physical education as required by the state for all first grade high schools.

Home economics is a vocational course made so by the state department of education about 11 years ago. The state now reimburses the local board of education for half the salary of one teacher. Before this plan became effective only one teacher was employed by the board of education for this study and the course was available for a lesser number.

Cooking is stressed during the first year although some instruction in sewing and housekeeping in general is offered. During the second year home-management, preparation of foods for special occasions, child care, remodeling of old clothing, table decorations and other duties which generally fall to the housewives' lot are taken up.

The work of the home economics student, however, does not end with the beginning of the summer vacation. Each first year student is required to complete at least three projects during June and July while the second year students must finish four projects before receiving a final grade for the course.

Make Periodic Visits

Teachers are required to make periodic visits to the homes of students during the vacation to check on the progress of the projects. Each project requires about 30 hours' work.

Wellsville's course in domestic science and home economics has more than 100 girls enrolled, mostly freshmen and juniors who prepare their luncheons, special dishes and meal projects in large, well-

GOOD, PLAIN COOKING! IT'S DEFINITE VIRTUE

"I'm just a good, plain cook!" How often we hear women saying that rather apologetically. I think it's something to brag about, this good, plain cooking. Doesn't it bring up visions of the old-fashioned dishes that have stood the test of the most critical appetites in the family for generations? Doesn't the most exacting gourmet boast proudly that he (gourmet rather belongs to the masculine gender!) can make hash and ham and eggs that "just can't be beat?"

And is there one among you who hasn't been able to excite your friends by discussing the flavorsome perfection of hot, mealy potatoes boiled in their jackets, or fluffy mashed ones with never a trace of a lump, or satiny, brown gravy glistening in the bowl, ready to be spooned generously over steaming boiled rice with every grain standing out light and tender?

Yes, there's an art, and it's a fine art, too, in good, plain cooking.

Trained Expert In Homemaking To Reveal Culinary Art Secrets

Mrs. Emily M. Lautz

WITH four distinctly different and well-planned programs ready to be launched tomorrow at 9:30 in the Ceramic theater, Mrs. Emily M. Lautz, arriving in East Liverpool today, assured her prospective audiences at The Review's 14th Cooking School that profitable discoveries await them in the entertaining four-day class.

Mrs. Lautz brings long experience and extensive training to the Ceramic stage. Her practical experience in homemaking and her adept ability to pass this information along to her "pupils" in interesting, attention-holding lectures, has won her the acclaim of the thousands who have listened to her words of wisdom and watched her deft fingers in her cookery demonstrations.

Mrs. Lautz was born in Cleveland and acquired her education there and in the famous old Wooster college at Wooster, O.

During the World war, she entered a public and professional life by taking an active interest in women's club work and parent-teacher associations.

While her interest in practical and professional housekeeping was growing, she acquired an unusual library of fine cookbooks in German, French and English and this familiarity with the culinery art decided her on the type of career to be followed after the death of her husband.

She entered the Fanny Farmer School of Cookery at Boston and added extensive training there to her practical knowledge and experience as a homemaker of years standing.

Mrs. Lautz has appeared before large audiences of women in all parts of the country. Recalling these years of friendly contact with representative women, she said today:

"I greatly admire the modern homemaker. That doesn't begin to express the enthusiasm I feel as I meet her in the north, south, east and west. And I am not referring exclusively to brides or young married women.

"Today's homemaker is willing to learn. The former settled attitude was, 'You can't teach me anything. The very idea! I've kept house for 25 years!'"

"That slightly hostile, you-can't-teach-me-anything state of mind is as out-of-date as a coal scuttle in a kitchen. Today's homemaker asks alertly, 'What's new?'

"Furthermore, she listens attentively and asks intelligent questions."

Hospital, Serving 320 Meals Daily, Relies On Science's Aid

Menus Must Be Prepared On Mass Production Plan For Patients Who Are Very Well Or Very Ill

The housewife, cooking for a sick person in her home, usually follows her instincts and does fairly well, but the kitchen of City hospital, serving some 320 meals on an average day, must depend on science to rule its operations.

The housewife usually is well acquainted with her patient and knows herself how it feels to be ill. Also she is in close contact with the physician, who can advise her on any special diets needed.

But the City hospital kitchen must prepare vast quantities of food three times a day for persons ranging in health from very well to the seriously ill.

This can be accomplished only by long experience and sanitary methods and a highly efficient kitchen and staff. Supervising this work is Miss Ruth Burrell, chief dietitian.

Mass Production Necessary

Food preparation in the hospital kitchen necessarily must be mass production, compared with a home kitchen, but it is designed to suit each individual patient. Primary considerations are nutrition, cleanliness, the condition of patients and making the food appetizing.

Four sets of menus are arranged from a basic menu, which is a normal or full meal. The other three are light meals, soft foods and special diets. Meals for nurses and other help corresponds roughly to full meals.

A typical full dinner consist of vegetable soup, crackers, roast lamb, scalloped potatoes, fresh spinach, a salad and cottage pudding with lemon sauce.

The light menu for the same dinner includes everything but the roast lamb. The soft menu would be strained vegetable soup, crackers, scalloped potatoes and baked custard with orange.

Full meals are for patients with injuries not affecting digestion or maternity patients and others convalescing. Light meals are for those suffering a general sickness, but able to eat fairly well. Soft meals are for patients who must avoid solid foods.

Special diets are specified by the physician, who simply indicates whether it will be a diabetic, protein deficiency, non-ruffage, reducing or other type.

A general census is taken once a day to determine how many of each kind of meals will be served. Meals are prepared in the kitchen, staffed by two cooks and seven helpers, and supervised and planned by Miss Burrell. They are sent to floors on elevators and served by nurses.

Special menus are prepared in the food laboratory, next to the kitchen, by student nurses who spend eight weeks of their course there under Miss Burrell's supervision.

"We have a few complaints," Miss Burrell said, "but in the main we keep them satisfied and well-fed."

She and her staff are well aware that theirs is an important role in the speedy recovery of the hospital's patients.

Crescent Ham

Dress up baked ham or pork with candied orange crescents. Cut crescents from flattened orange peels. Measure a cupful, cover with water and add ¼ teaspoon salt. Simmer, covered, 30 minutes. Drain in cold water and mix in 2-3 cup granulated sugar and ½ cup water. Simmer until the syrup has been absorbed. Stir with a fork to prevent sticking. Arrange on the meat, holding them in place with whole cloves. The cloves help out the flavor.

NEEDS OF TODAY FORM BASIS FOR 4-DAY LECTURES

Classes Open At 9:30 A. M.; Big Attendance Seen At Session In Ceramic

Tuned to present-day needs and interests, The Review's 14th Cooking School today was ready for its opening Tuesday morning in the Ceramic theater—the first of four swift-moving sessions to which a cordial welcome is issued to all. There is no charge.

Made possible through the cooperation of local firms and merchants, the school will be conducted also Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings with Mrs. Emily M. Lautz, recognized authority on homemakery and cookery, as the lecturer and demonstrator of the art, science and pleasure of preparing appetizing meals.

With doors opened at 9 o'clock for early arrivals, the class will get under way promptly at 9:30 and will continue for two hours.

A feature of the course will be actual demonstration on modern kitchen equipment of the newest and best in recipes for foods, baked goods, pastries and general cooking.

Streamlined Kitchen Erected

The stage of the theater has been transformed into a streamlined 1940 kitchen—in design and appointments—utilizing equipment every householder will depend on in filling the demands of cooking.

The latest labor-saving devices will be demonstrated, giving housewives an insight into what they may expect to use in their kitchen of tomorrow.

Pupils are urged to bring notebooks and pencils. Questions will be welcomed—whether they deal with soggy pie crusts, all-wet custard, laundry woes or any other subject.

Fragrant demonstration dishes will be carried home by fortunate members of each class.

Has Many Suggestions

Mrs. Lautz has untied household knots for thousands of women in many states. Gracious and sympathetic, she has built up an amazing storehouse of valuable suggestions for solving such fundamental problems as budgeting, meal planning, table service and food preparation for invalids and finicky youngsters.

She also will give an expert slant on how to use old and new products introduced in the fascinating demonstrations.

She will take pride and pleasure in showing her audiences how the up-to-date mechanical servants in her streamlined kitchen will trim traffic to a minimum of steps and labor.

The Review and assisting merchants and firms have arranged that the Ceramic's platform will present a demonstration kitchen, not an experimental base. Only equipment that has proved its worth by actual improvement will be used in the Cooking School.

Latest Tools Available

Realizing that small household tools have been modernized as much as major units the "new day" theme will be reflected all the way from compact refrigerators, simplified laundry accessories and regulated stoves, straight through the array of utensils and kitchen necessities used in the daily programs.

Free recipe sheets will be handed out at each lecture. These will help suggest cures for menu monotony long after the school is over.

These sheets—and Mrs. Launtz' comments—will be welcomed by those who regard entertaining at formal parties as a fearsome chore. Bridge luncheons will be made as simple as supper snacks. And there will be original hints on table decoration and simplified service.

Don't forget the hour: 9:30 a. m., Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Be there every day and take advantage of this unusual opportunity for a glimpse at the latest ideas and methods in homemaking.

Don't forget the place: Ceramic theater.

And remember: IT'S FREE!

Let There Be Light

If your kitchen doesn't get much light, paint it a light color. You will be delighted how much more cheerful and bright it becomes. Use dainty curtains, pushed back from the windows, to let in as much sunlight as possible. You can have gay colored accessories and utensils to accent the delicate tint.

LONGER RUG LIFE

It has been proved that thick resilient pads placed under rugs greatly lengthen the life of the rugs. The pads are not expensive, so it might be worth while to consider them when you get new rugs or carpets.

DEMONSTRATION LECTURES TO SHOW NEW COOKERY

PASTOR BLAMES PUBLIC'S APATHY TOWARD GAMING

Rev. Sowards Claims Public Must Be Aroused First To End Racket Evil

Rev. E. E. Sowards declared "we cannot sincerely raise our voices against the numbers' racket until our own hands are entirely clean" in a sermon Sunday night in the First Baptist church in which he assailed the rising tendency to gamble and blamed it on the passive attitude of the public.

An attack on gambling conditions from another pulpit was postponed by Rev. M. Rudolph Miller of the First Presbyterian church, who deferred his sermon on that topic because of weather conditions Sunday.

Pastor Defines Gambling

Speaking on "What is Gambling?" the minister first defined it, discussed its prevalence, asked "why is gambling illegal?" then pointed to its cost in human suffering and analyzed the responsibility.

"The dictionary defines gambling as staking money or any other thing of value upon an uncertain event. Thus, investment of money may be of great value to the community in providing permanent improvements, and even speculation may perhaps have some function in marketing great stores of products, but gambling is of no benefit either to the community or to the individual.

"The spirit of the times seems to encourage gambling, with emphasis upon the need for money rather than upon how it is obtained. Witness the wide-open gambling in Nevada and the legalizing of pari-mutuel betting in New York last fall.

"Even in East Liverpool it is almost impossible to send a child to the corner grocery store for the necessities of life unless the child comes into contact with the opportunity to take a chance on something.

Held Injurious To Morals

"Generations of experiences have shown that gambling is injurious to public and private morals. The countries that permit public lotteries are not noted for their high standards of living or for high morals.

"Gambling diverts money, time, thought and energy into non-productive channels, producing no new wealth but only distributing wealth already produced, and illustrating the truth of the proverb 'A fool and his money are soon parted'. To the individual gambling gives a wrong outlook and attitude.

"Instead of building plans for future security on the solid rock of work and thrift, the gambler builds on the shifting sands of hopes for a 'lucky break,' or 'making a killing!' Gambling grows on one, and is one of the most frequent causes of embezzlement, disgrace, failure, and finally even suicide. Apparently taking a chance on an automobile or other prize may be the first step toward final ruin.

"Some diversions may not be classified as gambling technically, but Christians are told to 'avoid all appearance of evil' and churches and reputable organizations make a serious mistake when such means are used to raise funds for worthy objects.

"We cannot sincerely raise our voices against the numbers racket or even the most vicious forms of gambling until our own hands are entirely clean in this respect. 'First take out the beam from thine own eye, then shalt thou see clearly how to take out the mote from thy brother's eye'."

Discussing responsibility, he said it is very easy to salve conscience by blaming the prevalence of gambling on the laxness of public officials. Generally speaking, a community has as good a government as it demands, and the responsibility for conditions rests primarily not upon the officials but upon the citizens who are the final court of authority.

"Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesars', and one of those things the community has a right to expect from each citizen is an intelligent and active — not passive — interest in all that pertains to the community welfare," he concluded.

Rev. Tidwell Concludes Week's Nazarene Service

Rev. W. M. Tidwell, pastor of the Nazarene church at Chattanooga, Tenn., concluded a week's service at the First Church of the Nazarene here by conducting three services Sunday.

He also addressed the Sunday school, which numbered 535 persons. This afternoon he addressed the East Liverpool Ministerial association, then left for his home in the south.

Sunday morning he stressed the need of individual consecration on the part of Christians; in the afternoon he preached on "The Second Coming of Christ," and at night he spoke on "The Last Goodbye," pertaining to the final judgment.

Lutherans Hear Sermon On 'Christ, The High Priest'

Rev. John F. Kindsvatter spoke on "Christ, the High Priest," pointing out the superiority of the Son of God in his meditorial character, in a Sunday morning sermon at St. John's Lutheran church.

"Our foundation for salvation rests on the priesthood," observed Rev. Kindsvatter. "In old testament days the priests stood at the head of the religious order with the high priest as chief ruler. The system of priesthood came into being because of sin. Since man could not approach God it became necessary to have a mediator, and consciousness of sin gave rise to the system of priesthood."

Announcement was made of the congregation's participation with the national Lutheran movement to assist in Finnish relief. Rev. Kindsvatter will preach on "The Denial of Peter," at the mid-week Lenten service Wednesday night.

Catholic Men Hear Lenten Mission Sermon

A large number of men heard the initial Lenten mission for men Sunday night in St. Aloysius Catholic church when Rev. Fr. John Prosser of Cleveland admonished them to examine themselves lest they, like Judas Iscariot, betray Jesus Christ by treachery or desecration.

Masses were heard at 5:30, 7 and 8 a. m. today, the latter one for children, in connection with the mission. Fr. Prosser concluded a week's mission Sunday for women of the church.

Fr. Prosser outlined conditions for confession, then said "it is for us to inquire if there are any tendencies of Judas in our souls. If so, they should be torn out before they lead us to the same disaster that befell Judas."

Confessions will be received after each of the nightly services this week.

Pastor Sees Demand For Proving Religion

Rev. M. Rudolph Miller declared in a sermon Sunday morning in the First Presbyterian church that men and women today are demanding signs to indicate the reality of religion, just as they did in the earthly days of Jesus.

With representatives of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Children of the American Revolution in attendance, Rev. Miller spoke on "Sensationalism," in the second of a series of sermons on the theme, "Tempted-Like As We Are."

'Even in these days when the world is in d'arkness, people expecting help by means of religion, would have a sign, some seeking desperately for one. When there is war and immorality people cry for a symbol or a sign. Though not unified there is a growing sentiment in America. At times the delivery of certain orations may be but an attempt to answer in terms of signs."

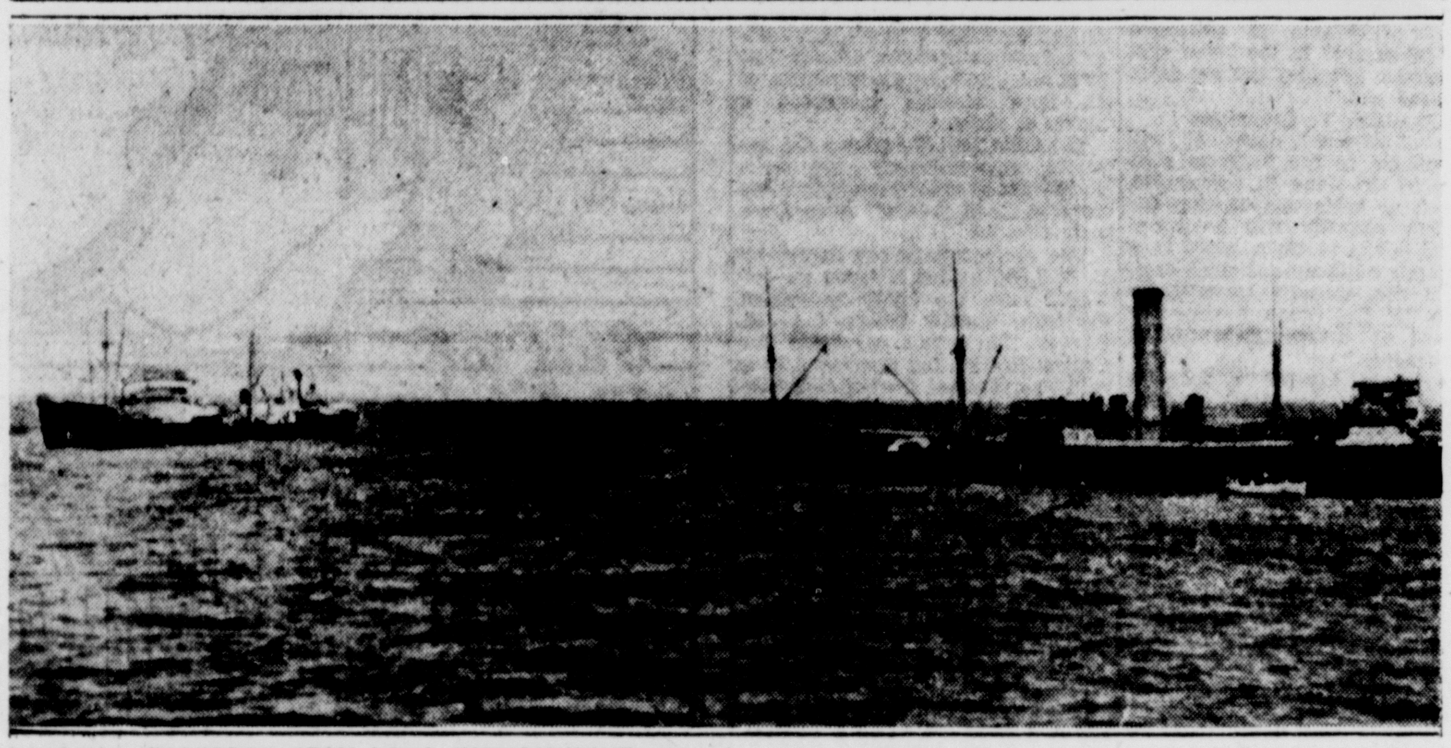
CREOMULSION
for Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronchitis



GAUNT AND TATTERED FROM LONG IMPRISONMENT aboard the German prison ship Altmark, these British sailors cheered with joy as they were brought to Leith, Scotland. They are shown aboard the British destroyer Cossack, which forced the German steamer aground in Norway waters. Three hundred and 26 British sailors, who had been taken from ships captured and sunk by the raider Graf Spee, and then imprisoned on the Altmark, were freed. The Altmark is shown below, left, at the height of her career. The photograph was made from the deck of the ill-fated Graf Spee.

Rescued English Seamen Tell Of 'Hell' On Nazi Prison Ship

By The United Press.

LEITH, Scotland, Feb. 19—An emaciated band of 326 seafaring men came down the gang-plank of the British destroyer Cossack Saturday night to tell a story of rescue from what they called a "living death" aboard the Nazi prison ship Altmark.

The Cossack and five other British warships, aided by Royal Air Force planes, rescued the Altmark prisoners by an invasion of Norwegian territorial waters.

There was no mistake made, they reported, when the British newspapers called the Altmark a "hell ship" on which were loaded the prisoners taken by German warships raiding Allied merchantmen in the North and South Alantic.

It Was 'Hell'

It was "hell", they said, to be captive aboard a wandering ship that was liable to attack while prisoners were locked in darkness below deck; to have little but black bread and water for sustenance; to be told by a Prussian master seeking amusement that British towns were in ruins as a result of Nazi airplane bombardment.

They plotted many things while locked below the Altmark decks, the prisoners related. They once tried to send out a crude SOS in a stolen food tin. They plotted mutiny but never got a chance to try it and they said they found time bombs which the Germans had fixed up to destroy the vessel if intercepted by the Allied naval forces.

Thousands of friends, relatives and Scots welcomed them home as the Cossack steamed into port.

Victims Of Graf Spee

Most of the prisoners were victims of the raiding Graf Spee, which was scuttled last December by her German crew off Montevideo after a battle with the British. They came from ships which the Graf Spee had sunk.

Frederick Thomas, 45, of Liverpool, had this to say:

"Forty-five men were herded together in one compartment of the Altmark. There was no fresh air and it was a filthy hole. The Germans made us feel as misorable as they possibly could with their cruel and heartless treatments."

William Curtis, a Doric Star crew member, said he had been on the Altmark for 10 weeks.

"The Germans cannot get any praise from me," he said. "They behaved very badly and the skipper was a tyrant. We had been held captive for about two weeks without being on deck. They wouldn't let us see anything and there was very little food. For a long time we only got cold water."

'Couldn't Believe It'

Mr. Curtis said he could not believe that British sailors had taken command of the Altmark and found it hard to realize that he was allowed to go on deck again after long confinement under the hatches.

The captives revealed that they did not know that Norwegian officials had examined the ship in the last week (as Norway claimed in a protest to Britain over the Altmark's seizure). One of them said:

"We must have been entering Norwegian waters when the steel hatch covers were screwed down and for the last two or three days we did not see daylight.

Another seamen described how some of the imprisoned Britons attempted to attract the attention of the Norwegian officials who boarded the Altmark.

Blew Whistles, Yelled

"We were all blowing whistles and shouting. One seamen pushed a home-made Union Jack through a hole in our hatch," the seaman said. "A German guard caught it and then let go and all of us fell in a heap.

"We then all battered at the hatches with whatever we could lay our hands on, but the Germans turned hoses on us. They had steam winches going full tilt to drown the noise we made and in the face of all that we were defeated."

The best news, the prisoners said, came when the hatches were opened and a British voice shouted through the darkness:

"Are there any British down below?"

Mutiny Planned

The story of how the captives had planned a mutiny was told by an unidentified survivor of the Ashlea.

"During the last two days aboard the Altmark conditions were so bad that a few of us tried to stage a mutiny and make a bolt for it," he said.

"We thought if 300 of us could get on the decks somehow, we could easily get control of the ship. However, the Germans got wind of the plot and that finished our chances for a breakaway. We had nothing but bread and water the last two days aboard, but that wasn't a great change as we got nothing much else than bread and water most of the time."

The youngest prisoner was Thomas Hunter, 16, a cadet aboard the Newton Beach, which was captured by the Graf Spee last Oct. 5.

"It's good to feel land under my feet again after that awful time on that ship," he said.

James Wilkinson, who said he had been a cleaner aboard the British freighter Doric Star before his ship was sunk by the Graf Spee, said he had been aboard the Altmark three months.

"All we had to eat in the morning was black bread and a bowl of wishy washy soup," he said.

MODIFIED WAGE-HOUR LAW SOUGHT BY TAFT

Asks Real Minimum Pay To 'Protect All Employes'

By The Associated Press.

SWARTHMORE, Pa., Feb. 19—Modification of the wage-hour act so that it may become a real minimum wage law was advocated by Sen. Robert A. Taft, Ohio candidate for the Republican nomination for President, in an address last night at Swathmore college.

He urged the real minimum wage law "to protect employes against oppression where normal processes of collective bargaining are not effective." He also said the hour regulation should be abandoned "except where it involves injury to health or lack of time for recreation."

Sen. Taft called on the Republican party to adopt in its 1940 platform a "working program of constructive policies" toward business, agriculture and labor.

In his program he included repeal or revision of regulatory measures which have hampered business; repeal of inflationary powers to devalue the dollar; balancing the budget within two years, and revision of administration of relief activities so that it is fair to those who receive aid and those who work hard to get on without it.

Sen. Ashurst of Arizona was born in Nevada while his parents were journeying by covered wagon to Arizona.

TO THE MAN WHO NEEDS A $100 LOAN

HOW YOU CAN BORROW $100 IF YOU CAN PAY BACK $4.46 A MONTH

No endorsers or guarantors needed — No credit questions asked of friends or relatives— Prompt, private service.

You can get cash simply and promptly at Household Finance, if you can repay your loan in monthly installments. You may repay in very small installments if you prefer. Or you may make larger payments in order to pay up sooner. From the table below you choose the payment schedule which fits your own needs and your own income.

Pick your own payment schedule

Suppose you need $100 and can conveniently repay $9.46 a month. The table shows that your installments will repay a $100 loan from Household Finance in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $4.46 a month for thirty months will also repay a $100 loan.

Find the amount of cash you need in the first column of the loan table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment that you can conveniently make out of your regular monthly income.

Sooner you repay your loan the less it costs

Note, in the last column of the table, that you may make very small payments if you prefer. See also that the sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. Four installments of $26.26 each, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full. The cost in this case is only $5.04. (All payments shown in the table include the charges. You pay nothing more.)

One rate to everyone

Household has only one price —the same rate to all, whether new customers or former borrowers.

What you do to borrow

All you do to get a Household Finance loan is acquaint us with your needs. We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) No questions regarding your credit are asked of friends or relatives, neither do you have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. You get your loan promptly, privately and without embarrassment.

Study the loan and payment table. See how you can repay the loan you need with a small part of your pay check. Then phone or visit us today. You will be under no obligation to borrow.

IF YOUR KITCHEN IS A MOB SCENE, USE EASY MENUS

Don't Try To Experiment If Called On To Feed Crowd; Rely On Old Stand-Bys

With club and church activities in full swing, it may be possible that your kitchen often is a mob scene, and that you may be deputized to feed 50 instead of your own small flock.

Sooner or later it comes to most of us to feed a crowd, and with this thought in mind, we have collected some good notions and recipes, to be clipped and saved, for they will come in as handy as a shoe-horn for a snug opera pump!

When you agree to cook for a crowd, don't permit yourself to be stampeded into a menu you can't tackle, food that would be a chore to prepare, even for a small number. Insist on dishes that you know you can cope with. Increasing the recipe will be the main part of the problem, plus collecting adequate kitchen utensils.

Measure Coffee Accurately

Coffee comes first when preparing for a crowd. Measure accurately. Coffee may be measured in advance, but water should be freshly drawn. If urns or other equipment aren't available, better use the boiled method.

To make coffee for 50, place one and one-half pounds coffee in a large muslin or cheesecloth bag, allowing for expansion of the grounds. Tie with string. Place in two and one-half gallons cold water, cover, bring to a boil. Boil for 10 minutes, reduce heat, let coffee steep about five minutes, then remove bag. About 50 cups of coffee will result.

If salad is on the menu, here's a good mayonnaise which is a saver, since only two eggs are used to make two quarts of the dressing. Ingredients include two whole eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, one and one-half tablespoons paprika, one-half tablespoon prepared mustard, two quarts of oil (vegetable cooking oil may be used) and one-half cup vinegar.

Add Vinegar Last

Beat eggs, salt, paprika and mustard together with rotary beater or electric beater if available. Add oil slowly in a fine stream, beating constantly. Add vinegar last (this must be done with this method) and beat the whole mixture until thoroughly mixed.

This mayonnaise goes nicely with a salad of fruit, nuts and cabbage. The recipe is for 30 servings. It takes two and one-half pounds of cabbage (chopped), one and one-half pints of celery (chopped), teaspoon sugar, two-thirds tablespoon salt, two cups mayonnaise, two cups chopped nuts, one small glass jar of pimentos (minced), one-fourth teaspoon pepper and four cups mixed grapefruit and orange segments (drained). Mix all ingredients together with salad dressing. Season and serve on lettuce garnished with pimento.

Soak Clothes Overnight

Soaking clothes to be laundered overnight saves energy and the clothing because you don't have to rub them so hard. Cover the clothes with warm soapy water and cover the tub with a lid or paper to keep in the steam. Next morning, drain and rinse the clothes, then put through the regular laundry process.

When you want to make chocolate doughnuts from the regular doughnut dough, add 2 squares of melted chocolate, 1 teaspoon vanilla and ¼ cup more granulated sugar.

STUDENTS

illuminated rooms on the second floor of the Beacom memorial addition of the high school.

S. E. Daw, superintendent of schools, said he considers the cooking laboratory one of the finest for a school of its size, as only the most modern kitchen arrangements are used.

The girls, taught by Miss Ann Bundy, work in pairs at "unit kitchens," each of which contains a range, sink and cabinet. The main course is for two years, but there is an extra course for one year for girls who wish only general home economics training.

Every Phase Of Home

The longer course, operated with the aid of federal and state subsidies, takes a girl student into every phase of homemaking, including meal planning and cooking, canning, child care, sewing, care of ill members of the family, and other phases.

The course is conducted on a 11-month program and girls undertake projects during the summer after school vacation starts.

Girls in the second year prepare full-course meals and luncheons at which parents, groups of students and board of education members are frequent guests, as the students welcome the opportunity of demonstrating the ability of preparing tasty repasts.

Midland High school's domestic science classes—in contrast to the former program of cooking and sewing—offer study in personality development, child care, care of the sick in the home, budgeting, dress designing, and consumer education.

Vocational Course Adopted

A vocational course, taught by Miss June Weamer, was adopted in 1938 for junior and senior students wishing to specialize. Forty are enrolled in the course, which requires 10 hours a week in classes. Work is similar to general home economics, but is more thorough, including a study of related arts and sciences.

General home economics classes include seventh, eighth and ninth grade students studying two hours a week, and 10th, 11th and 12th grade girls for whom the course is elective.

Personality development is studied by seventh graders and freshmen are working on child care. Miss Jane Guseman instructs the home economics groups, which have 250 enrolled.

A three-room model apartment—living room, dining room and kitchen—was installed for the vocational course. The rooms were planned and decorated by the students, who are responsible for their care. They plan and prepare meals in small groups, receiving experience in complete home-management. The sewing department is equipped with nine machines.

The deep-fat kettle is the ally of the homemaker who would like to serve her family some of those foods we enjoy when "we eat out", but seldom attempt at home. To be sure, the hotel or restaurant chef is a past master in the art of deep-fat frying and the homemaker can be if she observes a few simple rules.

There is economy and variety in deep-fat frying. One would never suspect the masquerade of left-over vegetables and meats, when they emerge from the deep-fat kettle as croquettes, fritters, and cutlets, all crispy and golden brown. There is menu variety in feathery light doughnuts, crisp French fried potatoes, and crunchy potato chips.

To keep fruit cake moist, place a cut apple or a piece of cheesecloth dipped in cider, in the container.

Youth Who Fired Rifle At Ohio Co-ed May Be Given Work In Alaska

By The Associated Press.

HAMILTON, O., Feb. 19 — Red-haired Homer Williams may get a chance in far-off Alaska to forget his unrequited love for Maxine Edwards of Navarre.

The 24-year-old poet-waiter, charged with firing a rifle wildly at the Miami university co-ed on the campus at Oxford several weeks ago, may plead guilty at his arraignment tomorrow in hope of being placed on probation, Prosecutor Paul A. Baden reported.

Thus, the prosecutor said, he will be free to take a job found for him in Alaska by a group of friends. He has pleaded insanity, but was found sane after an examination at the Lima state hospital for the criminal insane.

Miss Edwards was fired upon after she refused his offers of marriage. Baden said she did not wish to prosecute Williams.

The Week-End News In Brief

The Finns were urged to fight on by Gen. Baron Gustav von Mannerheim in a dramatic appeal issued as the Soviet army continued its drive on the Karelian isthmus.

Sumner Welles and Myron C. Taylor sailed for Europe. Neither Undersecretary Welles nor Mr. Taylor, special ambassador to the Vatican, would discuss in detail the work ahead. Welles will visit with leaders in Britain, France, Italy and Germany.

SIDELITES Of LIFE

The Cat's Meow

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — Howls and screeches in Andrew Ross's radio set sounded too realistic for sound effects, too piercing for static.

He investigated. A gray cat was sitting on the tubes. Ross tried to move her, but couldn't. Police were called, and they put the cat out.

Left, Right

LYNN, MASS. — Last year, 285-pound Charles D. Long slipped on ice and broke his left ankle. Patrolmen John Keenan and Charles Burrell took him to a hospital.

Last night, Keenan and Burrell answered another call. Long had fallen on the ice in the identical spot and broken his right leg.

Great Cats!

SAN MATEO, Calif. — That awful noise was Mrs. J. J. Bowler's cat with its tail caught in the wringer.

The animal apparently bumped a switch that turned on the wringer and then backed into it. A mechanic got it loose.

Marriage Of 1932 Re-enacted At Wellsville Church Service

The marriage of the former Miss Martha Russell McClelland and Kendall Eugene Little, which was first solemnized Sept. 3, 1932, by Rev. R. L. Bolon after he became pastor of the Wellsville Christian church, was re-enacted at a unique service in the church Sunday night.

Despite the stormy weather the service was well-attended. The wedding procession was formed in front of the church, the bridal party entering the door from the rear as the wedding march was played.

Mrs. Little Wears White

Mrs. Little was gowned in white with a veil, carried a white leather Bible and a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and wore a shoulder corsage of calla lilies. The maid-of-honor, Miss Elizabeth Miller, wore acqua and carried daffodills and pink roses. The four bridesmaids carried bouquets of snapdragons.

They were Miss Anna Mae Horner whose dress was light blue, Mrs. Ethel Worley, poudre blue, Miss Dorothy Grafton, peach, and Mrs. Virginia Patterson, acqua. Linton G. Barnes was best man.

Ronald Price carried the white ring cushion. Diana Zipperian, daughter of Mrs. Martha Zipperian, wore pink net and carried a basket of flowers as the folwer girl. The ushers were Robert Frontz, Francis Spring, Wilmer Fife and Page Worley. Mrs. Harry Shipley sang "O, Promise Me," and Mrs. Linton G. Barnes, organist, played "Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus," (Wagner), and "Wedding March", (Mendelssohn).

The wedding service was termed a living illustration of the relationship between Christ while His church was the setting for three five-minute talks, "Christ, the Divine Bridegroom," by Charles W. Stewart; "The Church as the Bride of Christ," by Mrs. Charles J. Robb, and "The Union of Christ and His Church," by Rev. Bolon. Miss Marie Headley sang "The Church's One Foundation."

A wedding cake, weighing more than 100 pounds, was served at a social hour in the basement following the service by the Ladies Aid society of which Mrs. W. E. Weldon is president. Two and one-half gallons of pennies and other currency were received at the unique offering taken in connection with this service.

Souffles Make Meal That Is Light, Filling

Three Steps Are Suggested To Eliminate Guesswork In Preparing Of Dish

All puffed up and some place to go. That's a souffle—a creamy, vision of lusciousness perfect for serving as the main dish for luncheon or supper.

To eliminate guesswork observe these three steps in souffle making:

1.—Carefully select and prepare ingredients to give subtle flavor and delicate texture.

2.—Bake in a pan of hot (not boiling water) in a moderately slow oven until the top is springy to the touch.

3.—Unmould cautiously on a heated dish and serve immediately. If there is any waiting to be done better let the family or guests do it rather than the souffle. A souffle will fall if it stands too long before serving.

Here are several excellent recipes:

Ham Souffle

(Fish, fowl or any other meat will be as tasty as the ham). Melt 3 tablespoons of butter and add 5 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon each of chopped parsley, onions, celery, salt and paprika. Pour in 1½ cups milk, 1 cup chopped cooked ham and 3 egg yolks. Cook slowly until thick and creamy.

Stir constantly; do not over cook. Fold in the egg whites, beaten, and pour into a well buttered mould. Use ring one if you have it. Bake 1 hour in a pan of hot water in a moderately slow oven—about 300 degrees. Remove from the oven and carefully loosen the edges with a spatula and lightly turn onto a heated platter. Quickly fill the center with buttered peas, green beans or spinach. Surround with a savory sauce. A cheese sauce is especially tasty for this combination.

To round out a luncheon or supper menu serve a green or fruit salad with a souffle, a quick bread or rolls, some preserves or jelly and a simple dessert.

This cheese tomato souffle is something new and is delicious for the bridge club or an informal supper menu. Melt 4 tablespoons of butter and add 1-3 cup of flour, 1-3 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon each of chopped parsley, onions and paprika. Pour in 1 1-3 cups tomato juice. Simmer until the mixture thickens, then add 1-3 cup grated cheese and 3 egg yolks. Beat 2 minutes. Fold in 3 beaten egg whites and quickly pour into buttered mould. Bake 1 hour as directed. Unmould carefully and surround with creamed rice and mushrooms. Spiced peach or pear salad makes a fitting partner for this souffle.

Chicken souffle is a real party dish and it's grand. To serve five or six persons, melt 3 tablespoons butter and add 5 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon of salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika and 1 teaspoon chopped parsley. Pour in a cup of milk. Cook slowly and stir constantly until a very thick sauce forms.

Add 3 egg yolks and beat 2 minutes, fold in a cup of chopped, cooked chicken and 3 egg whites, beaten. Pour into a buttered ring mould and bake an hour in a pan of hot water in a slow oven. Unmould and serve plain or surrounded with savory sauce, creamed aspargus or mushrooms.

If you have it, use chicken stock in place of the milk. For variety substitute tuna or salmon for the chicken and then add a little chopped sweet pickles and ripe olives for piquancy.

These ramekins are filled with thrifty souffle: eggs, chicken and mushrooms baked into a golden froth.

THRIFTY SOUFFLES
(Serves Six)

3 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup mushroom soup
1 cup chopped chicken
3 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon-colored
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Combine tapioca, salt and mushroom soup (of consistency to serve) in top of double boiler. Place over rapidly-boiling water and cook 8 to 10 minutes after water boils again, stirring frequently. Add chicken and stir until mixed. Cool slightly while beating eggs. Add egg yolks and mix well. Fold into egg whites. Turn into greased baking dish. Place in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 5 minutes, or until souffle is firm.

Note: Souffle may be baked in greased ramekins in moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes.

BRAZILIAN NUT COOKIE WINS WIDE FOLLOWING

There is no mistake or error in the following recipe for that new Brazil nut cookie. There is no butter, no baking powder, no flour in the cookie batter, just the nuts from Brazil, those seasoning partners, salt and sugar and a box of Biddy's best. The mixture is so simple and easy that the recipe is in almost daily use in some sections. Add it to your own collection; No masterpiece of seed-catalog art, no product of the professional, these are just simple little home-made-looking cookies you will make again and again.

Brazileese

2 cups ground Brazil nuts
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
6 eggs, separated

Mix Brazil nuts, sugar and salt. Beat egg yolks until foamy. Add sugar-nut mixture and beat thoroughly. Fold in the egg whites, stiffly beaten. Drop by teaspoon on ungreased cookie sheet and bake in slow oven (300 degrees F) about 20 minutes.

Curry powder, used with discretion, will give an interesting flavor variation to lamb stew.

CASSEROLE HELPS OUT WHEN IDEAS ARE LOW

Get out your casserole—when you find your food bills running high and your ideas low. There's nothing like the casserole for turning the less expensive cuts of meets and such old friends as cheese, canned vegetables, eggs and fish into hearty treats that go easy on both purse and time.

Not only do casserole dishes satisfy the hearty appetites of wintry days, but they have a fragrant hotness that is a welcome change from the skillet-to-platter-to-plate idea. Casserole dishes have this advantage, too: You can make them up several hours before serving time and let your refrigerator keep them in good condition; when dinnertime comes around, the oven will do the rest.

Cheese Economy

If you serve a lot of cheese in your family it pays to buy it a pound or more at a time. Keep it well wrapped in waxed paper and store it in the refrigerator. It will stay fresh for a long time.

HORSERADISH GRAVY ADDS TO POT-ROAST

Old Favorite Retains Place On Housewife's Menu

Let a man see "beef and horseradish" on a bill-of-fare and it's dollars to doughnuts that he will order it. Mrs. Homemaker is sure of appreciative applause when this old favorite appears on her own dinner table.

Pot-roast of beef and horseradish gravy is a somewhat different guise for these famous food affinities. It is so easy to prepare, too, because the sauce and pot-roast are cooked at one and the same time, saving both work and dishes.

The deep-well cooker of your modern range is ideal for cooking a pot-roast, which needs a steady low heat after browning. Then it will be tender and juicy, but it will not fall to pieces in carving.

Pot-Roast Of Beef With Horseradish Gravy

3-4 pounds beef rump or chuck
3 tablespoons fat
Flour for dredging
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 small bottle prepared horseradish

Dredge the meat well in flour which has been seasoned with the salt and pepper. Brown meat well on all sides in the melted fat (leaving the cover off) with the switch of the deep-well cooker turned to "high."

Then pour the horseradish over it and turn switch to "low." Cover and cook until the meat is tender, about 2½ to 3 hours. Turn two or three times during the cooking so that meat takes on the horseradish flavor. It may be necessary to add a little water if the liquid from the horseradish is not sufficient.

Make gravy as usual, and you will have the most delicious horseradish sauce that anyone ever tasted.

Lettuce Hints

If lettuce leaves for your party salad just won't "cup", this will help. Take two leaves of head lettuce and with a pair of scissors or a sharp knife, cut a V-shaped piece from the stem end of each. Then fit one V-shaped cut into the other and place on salad plate in form of a cup.

Always cream the butter and have it soft for spreading when you are making sandwiches.

Recipes

Crepes Suzettes

4 eggs
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
⅓ teaspoon salt
2 cups pastry flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1¾ cups milk
1 teaspoon grated orange rind

Beat the egg two minutes. Add the rest of the ingredients, and beat until very smooth and creamy. Pour one-fourth of the batter into a frying pan in which a tablespoon of butter has been used to grease the sides and bottom. When the pan becomes smoking hot the suzette should be added. Carefully turn when the under side is brown. (It will require about four minutes for this dessert to cook. It is done when it is well browned.) Spread with the filling and roll up. Then bake the rest of the batter in three different bakings. Top with orange sauce.

Filling

3 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons confectioner's sugar
¼ teaspoon grated orange rind
⅛ teaspoon lemon extract

Mix the ingredients.

Orange Sauce

½ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
⅓ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons flour
½ cup boiling water
2 tablespoons butter
⅛ teaspoon grated orange rind
⅛ teaspoon grated lemon rind

Blend the fruit juices with sugar and flour. Add the rest of the ingredients and cook until thick and creamy. Stir constantly.

Sweden's "Neutrality"

ON the theory that Russia's invasion of Finland is for the purpose of controlling the Gulf of Finland, a military measure, Sweden has little to fear from Soviet trespassing on its part of the Scandinavian peninsula.

Separated from Finland by the Gulf of Bothnia and lying entirely within Germany's orbit of influence, Sweden has reasonable security as far as danger from Russia is concerned. It has nothing Russia needs, but much that Germany needs and is getting without recourse to war.

Consequently, it is not surprising that Sweden has declared intention to preserve its "neutrality," meaning its present state of assurance that it is safe from Russia. Swedes may volunteer to fight for Finland, Swedish supplies may be sent to Finland, Sweden's popular and official sympathies may belong to Finland, but Sweden will not go to war with Russia unless its own territory is threatened.

The plight of Sweden and all other neutrals in Europe is pathetic. Without exception they are in acute danger, yet dare not act to defend their long range interests lest they, too, be made victims of force. The collective security they dreamed of after the first World war has been transformed into collective insecurity by the collapse of good faith among strong governments.

Papa Knows Best

TO grasp the significance of the interstate commerce commission's order reducing the basic passenger fare rate on eastern railroads from 2½ to 2 cents a mile, effective March 24, it is necessary to go back to November, 1937.

Pinched by the depression, railroads petitioned for authority to increase passenger rates from 2 to 2½ cents. On March 8, 1938, the commission denied the petition, but reconsidered its decision in July and granted the request for a trial period of 18 months.

In the meantime, the railroads had tried to attack their financial problem by a general wage reduction. This was turned down by the railroad brotherhood and when the process of mediation prescribed by law had been exhausted the railroads found themselves where they started.

On Jan. 22, this year, they petitioned for a nine-month extension of the 2½-cent rate. It is the commission's refusal of extension that reduces the basic rate again to 2 cents a mile. "Because a greater number of passengers undoubtedly will be carried and a greater number of passenger miles of service rendered under the lower fare than would be true under the higher fare, and because of the probably better net revenue results to the railroads," explains the commission, "we find that the interests of both the public and the railroads will be served better if the petition before us is denied."

This is perfectly clear to everybody but the railroads, whose argument that they should, after all, know something about running their own business is answered with the simple declaration, "Papa knows best."

But does he? Must it be assumed the railroads asked for a 2½-cent rate because they knew it was going to be bad for them?

"Uncle!"

THIRD term speculation has gone into some soaring flights of fancy, but a new altitude record is set in comment on James Roosevelt's marital problems.

When James filed suit for divorce last Thursday it promptly was interpreted as a sign his father would not run for a third term because the filing of a divorce suit by a member of the family would embarrass him politically. Or, to view the proposition in reverse, if the President intended to run for a third term his son would not get a divorce at this time because of the critical comment it would stimulate.

In view of the Roosevelt family's actively upheld reputation for doing as it darned pleases even if father is in the White House, this is the all-time limit in third term speculation. Even those who claimed to know the President's intentions by looking at the fuzz on caterpillars and observing the moss on trees are ready to say "Uncle!" after this one.

Happy Endings

HAPPY endings to the Graf Spee adventure have been passed out to everybody but Norway as the result of the grounding of the Altmark on the Norwegian coast.

The Altmark, a German naval auxiliary vessel attached to the Graf Spee, had been sought by the British because it carried prisoners from vessels sunk by the battleship before its raiding activities in the south Atlantic were stopped.

When the British found the Altmark, they did what any other country would do under the circumstances. They obtained release of its prisoners in a brisk encounter. Unfortunately, this entailed violation of Norway's neutrality, because the encounter occurred in Norwegian waters.

At the same time it gave Germany an excuse to announce the beginning of unrestricted submarine warfare, which was to be expected sooner or later anyway. It seems likely the Germans are satisfied, the British have given the public something to be excited about, and the Altmark's prisoners, who must have been tired of close confinement, are free.

Norway is professing indignation over violation of its neutrality, but in view of the fact it did everything it could to keep on the good side of Germany and failed through no fault of its own, even Norway can't complain too much.

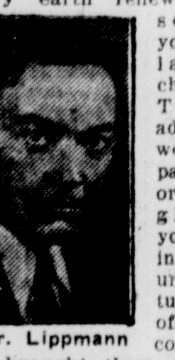
Youth Congress Leaves Sour Taste In The Mouth; 'Progressive' Education Given Part Of The Blame

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE American Youth Congress has come and gone and there is left behind a sour taste in the mouths of those who were most eager to patronize this organization. They felt that it heralded not only a sizable vote but also the eternal springtime in which the weary earth renews itself. But somehow the youth congress lacked the charm of youth. Though its adult sponsors welcomed it with paeans of rhetoric about the glory of the young and the inglorious failures of the mature, a few days of the youth congress in person brought them no inspiration and much dismay.



Mr. Lippmann

The fact of the matter is that these youths were rather shockingly ill-mannered, disrespectful, conceited, ungenerous and spoiled. They booed the President of the United States, which is never a decent thing to do, even if booing is supposed to be an exercise of civil liberty.

They were so rude to the wife of the President of the United States that she had to ask them to be good enough to let her finish what she was saying. They had the impudence to sit in the galleries and boo at the congress of the United States. They were possessed with the notion that they were in Washington to tell the country what the country owed them but scarcely a word was uttered about what they owe to the country.

THERE has been much discussion about how many of them were Communists and how far they are under Communist control. They answered the question beyond any reasonable doubt. As to what Communism rally is, how it operates, what it leads to, the great majority were obviously almost completely ignorant.

A weather vane is in the same sense ignorant of what causes the winds to blow, now from one quarter and now from another. But like a weather vane the opinions of the youth congress nevertheless were pointed infallibly by the winds of doctrine which blow from Moscow. As the winds from Moscow have shifted, their opinions have shifted.

It is not necessary to know how many of them are active members of Communist organizations. The fact is that they are hypnotized by Moscow. So they are for the Spanish loyalists; Moscow supported the loyalists. They undoubtedly were against Neville Chamberlain when he was trying to appease Hitler; Moscow then was against appeasement.

Now they are so super-natural between right and wrong, between the aggressor and his victim, that Neville Chamberlain is a war-monger and Finland is beyond the pale of their sympathies; Moscow has changed its policy. They are still, no doubt, very sympathetic with the Chinese; Moscow is still supporting the Chinese.

If and when Moscow comes to terms with Tokyo, we may depend upon it that the leaders of the youth congress will discover that Gen. Chiang Kai-shek is a fascist, a war-monger and that he is trying to draw the United States into war. In short, they are not revolutionists. They are dupes.

WHAT is serious about this is not the nature of these opinions but what has been revealed about how, as a result of recent theories of education, this new generation, or at least an articulate part of it, has learned to form its opinions.

So-called progressive education is based on the notion that if you remove authority and discipline and tradition in the unbringing of young people, the upobstructed natural goodness of their hearts and minds will by spontaneous creation bring them to good ideas.

The fact is, however, that if you remove authority and discipline and tradition, what you create is an unsatisfied need, a vacuum, which is then filled by some other tradition and by some other form of authority.

Thus you emancipate the young from the alleged tyranny of their own elders and, before you know it, they are hynotized by an alien tyranny. You teach them to believe that their own moral and political and religious tradition is an outworn idolatrous superstition and, before you can say Jack Robinson, they are worshiping the idols set up elsewhere.

Our generation, the one to which Mrs. Roosevelt belongs, has made many mistakes. One of its very greatest mistakes has been to misunderstand and then to break down the true relationship between youth and age. The true relationship is, so to speak, vertical—father and son, teacher and pupil, thinker and disciple, master and apprentice. In this relationship experience is transmitted to the young and vitality is renewed in the mature.

WE have substituted a horizontal relationship in which we segregate the young in youth movements and the aged in old-age movements and then call it progress. As a matter of fact this segregation is most reactionary, in that it breaks the connection by which the new generation takes possession of experience and improves upon it.

In the older, and truer, relationship between the generations, there is none of this sentimental foolery about youth as youth. To be young was glorious, no doubt, but it was not a career.

To be young was to prepare for the duties and responsibilities to come and what was respected in youths was not their immaturity but the eternal fact that a boy is going to be a man and a girl is going to be a woman.

And I have a notion that self-respecting young people prefer to be dealt with on that assumption—on the level, so to speak—without being sentimentalized over by their elders or apologized for by middle-aged adolescents.

And I have an even stronger suspicion that what causes modern youths to have so little respect for their elders is just this sentimentality, this being patronized, condescended to, and flattered and petted. For when they see their elders carrying on in this fashion, their elders do not seem to them properly grown up.

The 'Forgotten' West

By PRESTON GROVER

THE primary peeve of the organization of the Democrats of the 10 western states is non-recognition.

They claim the administration has forgotten them. The forgotten man, they say, is somewhere out west between the Colorado-Nebraska frontier and the Pacific ocean.

By forming a western bloc they hope to open the Democratic national convention in Chicago with about 130 delegates. With that influence behind them, they figure they can get more recognition for the western states than they have received heretofore.

Here is a sample of their complaint on the non-recognition matter: Of the 10 members of the cabinet, five are from New York. Not one of the others is from far enough west.

There isn't a western member of the Supreme Court. The west has tried to wizard one member into that august body ever since Justices Van Devanter of Wyoming and Sutherland of Utah retired. No luck.

We talked to one of the senior members of the westerners. He said the west had been sucked on to too many Democratic bandwagons. Western states have sent delegations to the convention already pledged to this or that candidate.

With out any votes to trade, they got no recognition. Moreover, as individual states they could get nothing because no one western state has enough votes to make a dent.

CALIFORNIA is not included in the picture. They can't seem to find anybody there who can speak for all the Democrats. California Democracy, from an organization standpoint, is in a mess.

While their complaints of non-recognition can be backed up by more concrete examples, the thing about which the westerners protest most is the trade agreements program.

The Rocky Mountain area complains that its interests—livestock, farm products, wool, timber, mining—are being sold across the ocean for the benefit of states with bigger domestic interests to protect.

Their chief trouble is they don't know exactly the man to get behind as a presidential candidate. Their present plan, as outlined to us, is to have delegations uninstructed but ready to vote for one outstanding candidate after they have dickered for dividends.

Many would not feel hurt if their manipulations put them behind Sen. Wheeler of Montana. He has a heap of support out there. Westerners claim he took on presidential stature with his management of the fights against the Supreme Court and the reorganization bills.

A lot of western business people began inquiring about him. Most painful to some of them was his recent appearance at the CIO convention in Columbus.

SAY what you will, a lot of practiced politicians believe that a candidate who gets the CIO indorsement might as well be kissed by a cobra. Wheeler doesn't have it, but he has a semblance of John L. Lewis approval.

That hurts. Wheeler has been the boy-hero of western A. F. of L. organizations for many years, but they have cooled these last few weeks.

A western party official took a poll of sentiment of his state's county leaders. He said 60 percent of them were against a third term and thought the general sentiment was that way.

But they told him 80 percent of the Democrats would vote for Roosevelt if he were nominated, regardless of the third term.

Next in line of preference stood Garner and Wheeler. Because of the trade agreements program, Hull was low. McNutt had what was called "a trace" of support.

Our informant said that if somebody at the Chicago convention gets up and moves for the nomination of Roosevelt for a third term, pledges and plans will be smothered in the stampede.

That estimate, he said, covers not only his own state, but all the western states. He thought it would stand good for the whole country. He hopes it wouldn't happen.

The Muskingum Controversy

Here's Review Of Case Which Seems To Have Reached Deadlock Feb. 8

ARGUMENT over cost and control of Muskingum conservancy district seemed to reach a deadlock Feb. 8 when Gov. Bricker announced he would call no special legislature to enact authorization for tranfer of lands by the district to the federal government.

This followed an opinion by Atty. Gen. Herbert on the preceding day that there is no provision in Ohio water conservancy laws under which the conservancy district can transfer its lands to the federal government.

On Feb. 5, State Sen. Walter G. Nickels of New Philadelphia, chairman of a joint Ohio legislative committee dealing with the district, addressed a telegram to Rep. Robert T. Secrest of Caldwell criticizing the latter's proposal that the state advance $1,500,000 to pay special unpaid district assessments after adjustment of easement values.

Gov. Bricker has declared the state will not do this. "I suggest you pass legislation in this congress," said Sen. Nickels, "authorizing the army engineers to accept fee simple title, reserving for the state the use and revenue from the lands owned by the district.

"This would enable payment by the government of a sufficient amount that conservation funds and a loan by the state would not be necessary. We understand that such an arrangement was your original intention."

Rep. Secrest, in a reply to Sen. Nickels Feb. 12, said the suggestion that the federal government pay full price and let the conservancy district keep the land is ridiculous.

HE REVIEWED the history of the district, recalling that the Muskingum project was approved in Washington March 29, 1934.

The district obtained the state's promise to relocate highways and to raise money for purchase of lands and operation of the district a tax was levied on benefitted property owners.

"This tax," declared Rep. Secrest, "was unbearable and threatened to destroy property values in the whole Muskingum valley and in many tributaries to the Muskingum river."

Thereupon, recounts Rep. Secrest, an attempt began to get the federal government to take over the project, making it unnecessary to levy any taxes for flood control.

In the 1939 congressional session a bill was passed authorizing the federal government to do this. The federal government stood ready to give $1,500,000 to the district when it was given assurance that the district's assets would be turned over.

"The board of directors to the conservancy district," says Rep. Secrest, "signed an agreement to do this and the government last August gave the conservancy district a check for $1,400,000.

"Some time later the judges of the conservancy district, or at least a majority of them, ordered the board of directors not to transfer any land to the federal government in fee simple, taking the position that the district should retain control of the lands for conservation and recreational purposes."

HOWEVER, argues Rep. Secrest, the government cannot pay as much if it takes easements as the district paid because the district will be retaining use of the land and the income from it.

"If the government cannot pay as much for easements as they do for fee," concludes Rep. Secrest, "there will be a deficit, including interest charges, or premiums on district bonds. This may amount to $1,000,000.

"After getting a bill through congress to take the whole tax burden off the people I do not want to see anything done that will put a part of this burden back on the people."

When the conservancy district judges took the position they could not turn over the land to the government in fee simple, they requested an opinion from the attorney general. It was this opinion that Atty. Gen. Herbert delivered Feb. 7.

"If the conservancy district or the state wishes to give a part of their assets to the federal government in the way of easements and retain the rest," says Rep. Secrest at the conclusion of his letter to Sen. Nickels, "someone has to pay for what they keep.

"This somebody will have to be the taxpayers down the valley or the state as a whole. The other extreme solution is for the federal government to condemn the whole works and take it, as they have a right to do under the flood control act passed by congress."

Why Have Any?

IN an effort to conserve the paper supply, the Nazis have eliminated the provincial editions of all Berlin newspapers except one. Regular editions have been reduced in size.

This is a natural and logical development of the Nazi policy of a "controlled press". Under a system such as now obtains in Germany, in which the Nazi propagandagogue suppresses, dresses up, twists and perverts the news in any way he sees fit, the need for newspapers—real newspapers—is greater than ever.

But there is none; there are only the "controlled" papers; and these could be dispensed with altogether without vitally affecting the news. All the so-called news emanates from the same source, namely, Herr Goebbels; ergo, there is no need for extras, for provincial editions, or any editions.—Baltimore Evening Sun.

Runyon Likes Notification Ceremony Among Other Old Political Customs; Roosevelt Always Beats Gun

By DAMON RUNYON

ANOTHER old-time American political custom in connection with national conventions that we dearly love is notification of the candidates for president and vice president that they have been nominated.

This is accomplished by committees appointed for that purpose after the convention finally has picked its candidates. The notification committees look up the candidates and tell them quite frankly that they have been honored.

Of course the most stir is made over the notification of the presidential candidate. In fact, for all the publicity the notification of a vice presidential candidate gets, it might as well be done by messenger boy. It is alleged that years ago one vice presidential notification committee forgot the name of the man it was to notify and had an awful time finding the records of the convention to learn his identity. We wish to add that we do not believe this story.

The notification ceremony goes back to the earliest days of the republic when there were no telephones or telegraph wires and the means of transportation were limited. A successful candidate might not have been present at the convention, so it was necessary for some of the boys to mount their trusty steeds and jog off to give him the tidings.

NOTIFICATION would seem unnecessary in these times when as a rule a candidate is either on the ground or sitting with one ear cocked to the radio while a convention is in progress and the other ear glued to a telephone connecting him with his floor manager at the scene, but political parties are wedded to all old customs.

Until recent years, notifications were unhurried. If the candidate was at home when nominated, he just took his position in a rocking chair on the front porch and rocked back and forth until the committee got around to him. Of course he suspected something all the time, because candidates for president and vice president are commonly chronic readers of newspapers and newspapers long have given wide circulation to news of nominations.

The idea of a rocking chair on the front porch was to give the candidate a homey touch. If he could rock there in hot weather with his coat off displaying a pair of red suspenders, so much the better. We always though Al Landon hurt himself politically by wearing a belt when rocking on the front porch.

THE notification committee might wait for some time after the convention, so the members could get new striped pants and plug hats and the candidate could prepare his speech of acceptance. The White House incumbent, Mr. Roosevelt, was responsible for changing some of the old methods.

He was not actually in Chicago at the instant he was nominated the first time, but was climbing into a plane crying, "I accept" before the counting of the last ballot had gone very far. This precipitation was frowned on by many old-timers who felt that Mr. Roosevelt should have waited in a rocking chair at Hyde Park, but in the first place, as it was later explained, Mr. Roosevelt had no rocking chair and in the second place, his manager, Uncle Jim Farley, was afraid the convention might change its mind.

Anyway, Mr. Roosevelt was there before you could say scat and that made his later official notification seem rather flat. It contained no element of surprise.

Still, the second time he was nominated, which was in Philadelphia, he was even more precipitate. He notified the convention committee. We are informed that he intends trying to beat his own best record for precipitation the next out. He is going to accept the nomination before the convention assembles.

WE know for a positive fact, by the way, that Mr. Roosevelt is going to run for a third term. However, we would not care to make the statement publicly, because he might denounce us. We remember he called one of those Washington correspondents a dunce and told him to go stand in a corner when the correspondent asked him if he was going to run again. But calling us a dunce would make us good and sore.

We might say to Mr. Roosevelt that we had asked him a question like a gentlemen and that we expected a gentlemanly reply. Then probably those secret service guys would start hitting us over the knob with beanbags and there would be a dreadful scene. Nonetheless, we know he is going to run again, only keep it under your hat and never say we said so.

What we long have been waiting for in connection with the notification of a presidential candidate is for the notification committee to go off on a bender and forget officially to notify the candidate at all. Of course that would not faze Mr. Roosevelt, but we think it would confuse others less experienced. They never might be sure they were running.

Combing

By Truman Twill

A SEMINAR on combing the neighborhood for a lost child held under this department's auspices for the benefit of fathers produces the following point of view:

When a father comes home from work to find the other neighborhood children grouped in the front yard receiving directions from a frantic mother on how to comb the vicinity for their missing child, he is expected to take an interest in the proceedings.

This means he must trudge from place to place inquiring anxiously if anyone has seen his offspring, who has been reported missing without trace for the last 45 minutes.

He must go to all the places where it occurs to him a child might go—the drug store, the cigar store, the filling station, these being the places he would visit if he were a missing child.

In due course of time, having uncovered no trace of the quarry, he must return home to furnish solace for the grieved mother. This means he must pretend to be bright and cheerful and resist suggestions that he call the hospitals and police department without further delay.

He must take the position that the child knows where its mother and father are, therefore is holding high cards in the game they are playing. In other words, they don't know where to look for the child, but the child knows where to look for them and ultimately will do so.

When this line of comfort wears out, the father must make a gesture toward calling up the police, the hospitals and so on, always encountering the busy signal on the telephone.

Everything is going to turn out all right, he must keep repeating. If the child's a chip off the old block it always will come home in time for supper, ha, ha, and meanwhile what is being done about supper — anything?

As tension increases and the posses that have been combing the vicinity return one by one to report no results, it is expected that the father will put on his coat and hat again and fare forth to give his all to the search.

Just as he gets a half block from the house there will be a cry of discovery from the rear and it will turn out that the child has been spending the afternoon comfortably in a house two blocks away and, just as the father said, has come in time for supper.

The wise father will mutter something about all being well that ends well and will refrain from adding, "I told you so."

PATRIOTIC DAYS GIVE CHANCE FOR COLORFUL PARTY

Entertainment, Decorations And Menus Should Hinge On Colonial Motif

Washington's birthday could be just the occasion to give that mother's party at the school, to observe the Literary club's guest day or—could be—just the time for a Washington's birthday get-together.

The entertainment, decorations, refreshments and costumes should be based on colonial motifs so far as possible. And that's the day of days, too, to have plenty of flags about.

For refreshments at the average party—fancy sandwiches (in vast numbers), a hot or cold beverage

GEORGE WASHINGTON PUNCH

1 quart grape juice	1 teaspoon lime flavored gelatin
2 cups cherry juice (from No. 2½ can red pitted cherries; save drained cherries for pie)	1 cup water
	1 pint plain soda water
	1 quart ginger ale

Dissolve gelatin in water that has been heated to boiling. Cool. Add to fruit juices. Sugar may be added if desired. Serve from large punch bowl with plenty of ice, adding soda and ginger ale just before serving.

Hatchet - shaped sandwiches with minced ham and horseradish filling may be served as an accompaniment, as well as maraschino cherries dipped in ground pistachio nuts.

(both, if you can serve them), small cakes and confections. A red sherbet—clove, raspberry, cherry or strawberry—would make it even more of a party.

Extra Special Centerpiece

The centerpiece on the serving table should be extra 'special. Here's one that makes a fine patriotic decoration: Arrange red flowers (carnations are fine) in a holder in a deep bowl. Bunch them close together with rubber bands fastened around the stems close to the blossoms.

Arrange white flowers around the red ones, then blue ones around those. Since it often is difficult to get blue flowers at this season, you could substitute a blue paper frill, nosegay fashion. Light the table with tall white tapers set in Colonial glass or silver holders. Of course you can use colored candles, but white ones seem dainter on a table where food is being served.

There should be trays of fancy sandwiches on the table—these and others equally as good tasting but less troublesome to make, are passed to the guests by girls in Colonial dresses.

Cut Shield Shapes

Try this fancy open sandwich idea: Cut shield shapes from thinly-cut white bread (paper patterns will do it). Spread white cream cheese blended with soft butter (creamed, never melted) on the shields. Stripe the shields with pimiento strips. Cover with waxed paper and a damp cloth and keep in a cool place until serving time.

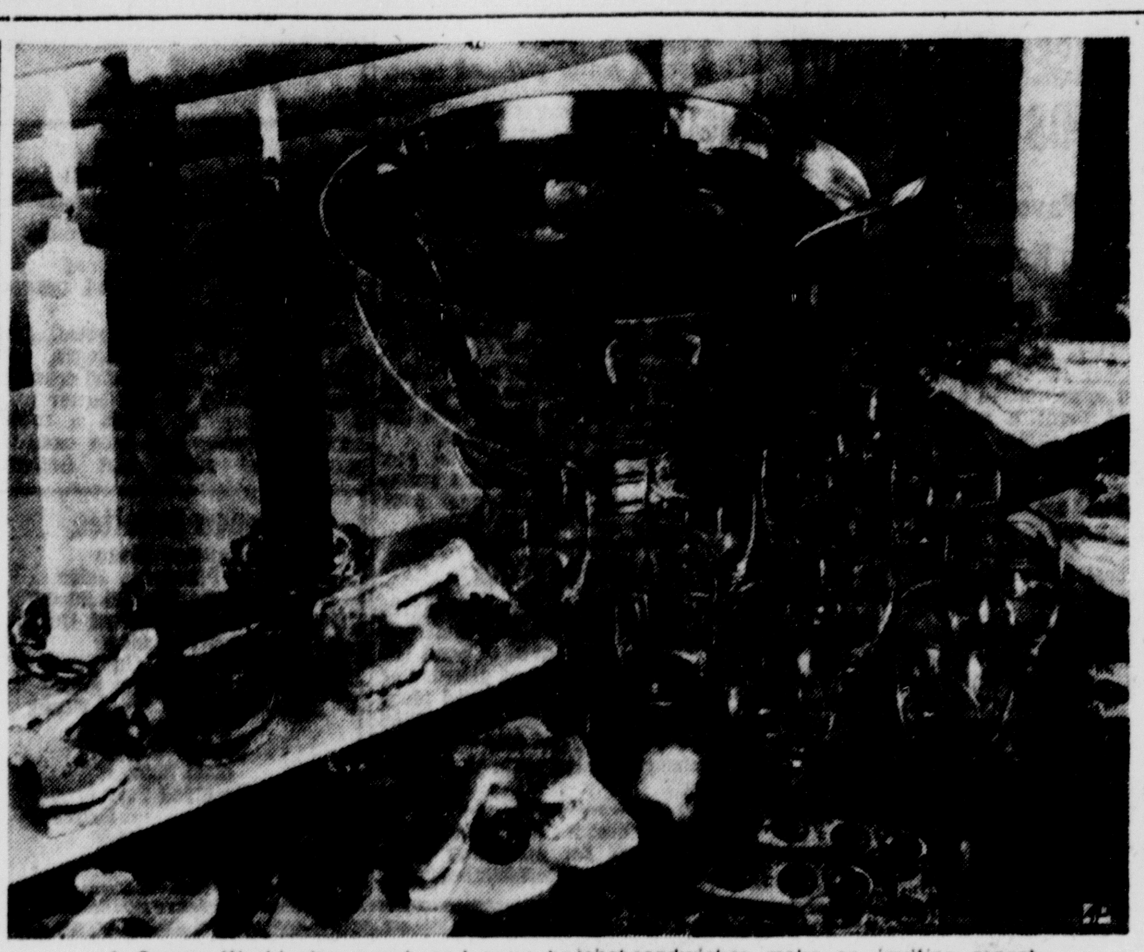
Keep all the reserves, as a matter of fact, well covered and chilled. You also can make shields of white cake baked in thin layers. Cut into shields, frost them with white icing and design stars and stripes on them with colored gum drops.

Here is a cake suggestion that helps dress up the serving table. Bake 2 large sheets of cake (about 1½ inches thick when baked). Frost tops and sides with white icing.

Make stripes of red tinted icing and stars from gum drops (cut into shape with scissors that have been dipped frequently into warm water to prevent sticking). Carefully place the frosted cakes onto shallow serving dishes. Cut into 1½ inch squares. Place at either end of the table. These are decorative as well as delicious.

Raspberry ice served from a large crystal bowl looks delicious on the table and is especially refreshing to the palate.

Individual candy favors, or candy colonial hats, small Mt. Vernons, or whatever other favors your shops offer, can be piled on a side table in the dining room. The guests take them as they leave the party.



A George Washington punch and some hatchet-sandwiches make an inviting repast.

Try this for removing stubborn lipstick stains from linens: Rub soap into the stain, let it stand an hour or so, then wash the garment in the usual way. If the stain still remains sponge it with hydrogen peroxide and rinse at once in cold water.

Want Some Seafood, Mama?

With Rice It Makes Nourishing And Delicious Mixture

RICE and seafood always make a good, nourishing, tasty mixture and we offer some recipes along these lines, especially nice for supper.

Norfolk oysters are first on the menu. Make with one and one-half cups hot, cooked rice, one cup white sauce, one pint oysters, butter, salt, pepper and one cup buttered cracker crumbs. Cover bottom of buttered oven dish with one-half of the rice. Cover with one-half of the oysters, pour over sauce, dot with butter, and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Repeat with rest of the ingredients. Cover with crumbs and bake at 400 degrees Fahrenheit for 30 minutes. Six servings.

Shrimps Louisiana style is a dish typical for the fine cooking in that region. Make with one and one-half cups hot, cooked rice, two tablespoons butter, two-thirds cup cream, one-fourth teaspoon celery salt, two-thirds cup canned shrimp, teaspoon chopped onion, one-half teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne and three tablespoons tomato sauce. Cook onion in butter for five minutes. Add shrimp or lobster, broken in pieces, rice and cream. When hot, add remaining ingredients and serve in hot serving dish. Five servings.

Crabs with Rice make a delicious dish. Make with one cup rice, two or three small onions, tablespoon butter, 15 small crabs or one-half pound can, two small carrots and salt and pepper. Clean the rice thoroughly. Clean the crabs. Cut off and crush the legs and cook in boiling salt water for about an hour. Strain the juice and pour over the rice.

Let stand for about 30 minutes and then cook until rice is tender. If canned crab is used, cook the rice in boiling water with a few pieces of the crabmeat. Cook the chopped onion and the carrots in the butter until slightly browned and then add the crabmeat. Season with salt and pepper, add the rice and cook together for several minutes. Serve hot. Serves eight.

Curried Crabmeat is made with two cups hot, cooked rice, three tablespoons butter, one and one-half teaspoons minced onion, three tablespoons flour, tablespoon curry powder, one and one-half cups each chicken stock and canned crabmeat, tablespoon lemon juice and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Cook minced onion with butter for three minutes. Then add flour, salt and curry powder, stirring until smooth. Next add chicken stock and cook until thickened. Add picked, canned crabmeat and the lemon juice. Heat and serve with hot rice. Chicken bouillon or canned chicken broth may be used as the stock.

Lionel Barrymore Reveals His Best Egg Recipe

HOW do you like your eggs? Norma Shearer wants two eggs, soft boiled. Robert Taylor eats an omelette every morning. Mickey Rooney likes his eggs with ham or bacon. So does Jeanette MacDonald.

Lionel Barrymore says to scramble his with cheese. What's more, he gives a recipe. He says it's equally good for a luncheon or supper dish. Here it is:

½ lb. American Cheese—rub through grater
½ cup cream
8 eggs
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
Salt and pepper to taste.

Beat eggs slightly, and add remaining ingredients. Pour into a well-buttered skillet, and cook very slowly, stirring constantly so the cheese will be melted by the time eggs are cooked. Serve on toast.

Eggs will be more plentiful in 1940, from the market's present view. And eggs rank high in their excellent food value. Iron, needed for good red blood, is stored in the yolk.

Eggs contain phosphorus and vitamin D, too.

HUSBANDS LIKE TASTY 'BROILER BREAKFAST'

"Broiler breakfasts" are beloved by men and they're popular with homemakers, too. There's no danger of foods catching fire, no disagreeable smoke to make you start the day wrong.

"Broiler breakfasts" economize on time and dishes, too. Here's a sample menu, with everything but the coffee prepared in the broiler of your modern electric range.

Broiled Apple Rings
Crisp Bacon Slices
Toasted English Muffins or Rolls

To make the crisp bacon slices, dip strips of bacon in cream, then roll in flour. Place on rack of a broiler pan. Set the regulator at "broil". Broil, turning once, until bacon is crisp and brown.

To add to the attractiveness of cooked or canned shrimps, remove with a sharp knife the little black vein that circles the outside.

SWING IS DEAD! LONG LIVE SWING!

Something Undoubtedly Happened To Jitterbugs In Last Few Months

a New York Victor Record distributing agency. "For a couple of years they kept asking for the most cockeyed things you ever heard of."

Meanwhile, the lads giving swing the spotlight forgot that it is, at present, the music of-by-and-for a minority. The great majority of the American people were not and are not "jitterbugs". They want a catchy or a sentimental tune to sing, a funny song to smile over, a steady tempo to dance to.

But the boys in the entertainment industry didn't forget it. "We go on the principle that the public doesn't change," one record man told me. "And it doesn't. During all this swing craze the songs that sold best — more than 300,000 discs — were every one of them corn."

Frank Teschmaker, a famous and talented jazz musician, once said, "You can't play hot and make a living out of it." Frank said that before the swing era but it was just as true later on.

It was all right for a man or a band to make a reputation playing hot jazz (swing) but he couldn't land the lucrative recording, radio, movie, hotel and dance contracts, and keep it up. Hot jazz is for Negroes, musicians and the cognoscenti. The public at large wanted to dance and to hell with the art of jazz.

So, despite all the hogwash about swing, comparatively little of the McCoy was served up during the swing era to the general public. What the lads, willingly or under duress, played was "commercial swing" and that's something else again. It uses some of the effects of jazz. But it is thinned out, watered down.

The public couldn't help getting tired of it.

So today, at the beginning of a new decade, swing is "dead". The people who say that mean it is no longer a commercial article that will sell like soda pop in the bleachers on a July day.

Billboard, organ of the entertainment business, analyzed the 52 "blue-ribbon" songs of 1939 and found that 32 were "out-and-out sweet ballads," while only 11 could be called swing.

According to Harry Moss, an official of Music Corporation of America, topflight band booking office, the most popular bands today are: Kay Kyser, Guy Lombardo, Horace Heidt and Orrin Tucker. Every one is of the unmitigated "sweet" variety.

Giving these bands strong competition are Glenn Miller, Glen Gray, Tommy Dorsey, Gene Krupa, Bob Crosby, Count Basie and Benny Goodman. Sweet fans and reformed swing addicts will recognize in this group some of the outstanding swing bands. Yet, Moss reports, without exception they are now mixing sweet stuff with their hot repertoire.

To crystallize and set the new trend, a new dance is necessary, in Moss's opinion.

"It has to be a close-together dance, as well as one at a moderate tempo," he says. "The dances from England didn't catch on because they, like the jitterbug dancing, kept the dancers apart. Incidentally, I don't look down on jitterbug dancing. It takes an expert dancer to do it. However, the American public wants a dance in which the man can do simple steps, can hold the girl in a respectable but close embrace."

(Next — The Rise of Jazz)

What They Say

A SURVEY by the Associated Press of the swing situation turned up these typical answers:

DENVER night club man: "Most Denver dancing places won't permit jitterbugging and swing."

KANSAS CITY music official: "The trend is away from jitterbug music."

AUGUSTA, Ga., dancing teacher: "Definite change back to dances not so jumpy."

CLEVELAND theater man: "The jitterbugs very definitely are dying down."

CHICAGO music editor: "The latter part of 1939 saw the kids calming down."

SACRAMENTO dance hall operator: "I would put the number of jitterbugs at not more than 10 percent of the total . . . of our patrons."

HOUSTON school teacher: "It is hard to predict what a jitterbug will do, but right now it looks as if the kids are burned out on the craze."

LOS ANGELES dancing teacher: "They tell me they are sick of swing and now prefer sweet music."

MR. SWING. Louis Armstrong comes nearer than any other individual to deserving that title. His own career, which began in New Orleans, continued in Chicago, and went east from there, following exactly the trail of the tornado that was jazz.

International Trends Leave Stock Dealers Up In Air

By VICTOR EUBANK
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 — Wall Street traders labored with mixed opinions on international trends today and stock prices paralleled their opinions.

Among those fractionally lower were U. S. Steel, United Aircraft, Eastman, Youngstown, Martin, Boeing, General Motors and New York Central.

Bonds and commodities were uneven. Foreign markets were steady in light dealings.

Chief factor in unsettling the operators was the sequestration of British holdings in 60 leading American stocks by the British government.

Market observers continued to keep a weather eye on the progress of European bourses with special attention to the strength displayed in Paris.

The steady trend there was based, to a large extent, on reports of a new trade accord between France and Great Britain.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 19— Selling inspired by further precipitation in the southwest and extreme weakness of Buenos Aires wheat prices unsettled the Chicago market early today.

Opening 1 cent lower to ⅛ higher, May 1.02¼-1.02, July 1,00¼-1.00, wheat contracts showed losses of around a cent before steadying. Corn started ¼ down to ⅛ up, May 56½-⅝, July 56⅞-57.

Helps For Field And Garden

The following questions are those answered by Victor H. Ries, extension floriculturist of Ohio State university:

Q.: I would like to get an encyclopedia for garden reference and would like to know which one of the several on the market you would advise?

A.: I believe you will find that the Garden Dictionary edited by Norman Taylor will be up-to-date and useful. At about half the price for that book, you can buy the Garden Encyclopedia. I feel the other is worth double the price. If, however, you wish to identify plant materials and have the necessary training, you will find it necessary to use L. H. Bailey's Clyclopedia of Horticulture. It is an older book but it is still usable.

Q.: I am planning to grow some tuberous-rooted begonias in my garden this summer and I am wondering if you would recommend I buy the roots of the begonias and start them indoors or wait until later and buy the growing plants that have been raised from seed?

A.: I prefer the young plants that have been raised from seed. Although, today, they are slightly more expensive than the dormant roots, I believe you will have more success with less trouble than when attempting to grow your own.

Q.: Last fall I purchased a number of pansy seedlings and set them out in my cold frame in the yard. There is a glass sash over them and a straw mat over the glass. Is there any need of my looking at them this winter?

A.: As dry as the ground has been in many parts of the state, if your cold frames are in the same condition as mine, they are rather dry and are in need of ample watering. You will probably have to check up on this at least once a month to make sure the seedlings do not suffer from lack of moisture.

Q.: I am interested in evergreen holly. What kind would you recommend for growing here in Ohio.

A.: You will find that the American holly, Ilex opaca, is hardy and satisfactory. You must remember, however, that the sexes are in separate plants so that you must have at least one male plant for each group of females.

Q.: I want to put in a planting of evergreens around my porch this coming spring and would like some information on the selection of varieties.

A.: First, may I suggest that you ask your county agricultural agent for a copy of our bulletin, Ornamental Evergreens, which has just been revised and is now available. In general, may I suggest that you keep away from the arborvitaes and all very slender pyramidal forms and all symmetrical globe forms. You should especially consider the junipers and yews with these, for the sake of variety of foliage effect, and some of the broadleafed evergreens such as mahonia, firethorn and wintercreeper.

Fish Build Health, Cut Budget

FISH—comparatively inexpensive, containing little waste and requiring a rather short cooking period—is a good friend of the budget. It is also one of our very best health-giving foods. So it's a good idea for a homemaker to induce her family to become fishminded.

Frozen, fresh or dried fish are available in most sections of the country so fish meals can be frequent. The flavor of frozen fish compares favorably with that of fish freshly caught.

Thaw out frozen fish in a room of moderate temperature—20 minutes is about enough. To hasten the thawing soak 5 minutes in cold water. Do not soak longer or much of the flavor will be lost.

Piquant Sauce Needed

When you buy fish steaks or fillets allow ⅓ pound per serving. A fillet is fish with all the skin and bones removed; it is a good buy. Allow ½ pound of whole or large-boned fish for each person.

A mild-flavored fat fish calls for a piquant sauce such as pickle relish, tomato or olive. A lean fish with little fat needs extra fat supplied through a richer sauce—cheese, egg, hollandaise, mayonnaise. Lemon goes with all fish.

Fish has little connective tissue so it should be cooked just long enough to develop the flavor and make it tender enough to eat. Overcooking breaks apart and toughens it.

Baked fish is quite a delicacy, and is not hard to prepare. Select a fish 4 pounds or so, and either split or fill with a savory stuffing. Arrange in a shallow baking pan and cook uncovered, in a moderate oven.

Allow 10 minutes per pound or less. Add 10 minutes extra for those over. Baste all fish with fat (butter or substitute) mixed with equal parts of boiling water or tomato juice. If a lean fish is chosen, additional fat is needed, so fasten thin strips of salt pork or bacon on top. As they cook their drippings season the fish.

Pan-fried butterfish—a dish as good as it looks.

Cooked fillets or individual pieces of fish: Dip in rolled crumbs (or cornmeal), then quickly dip in egg yolk mixed with equal portions of milk. Dip again in the crumbs. Arrange in a shallow well-greased pan. Spread with melted butter mixed with salt, paprika, celery seed and chopped parsley. Bake 5 minutes in a hot oven. Turn carefully, baste with the butter seasoning mixture, and cook about 8 minutes until the fish is crispy brown and tender.

Stuffed fish steaks: Select two steaks of medium size. Spread one steak with a highly seasoned rice or bread stuffing. Cover with the other, top with melted butter, seasonings and a little lemon juice. Serve hot with tomato sauce.

Broiled fish: Split small fish, cut larger fish into serving pieces or use fillets. Arrange about 5 inches below a flame (after first brushing fish with melted butter). When brown, turn and cook the other side. Spread quickly with butter mixed with seasonings and parsley.

PAN-FRIED: BUTTERFISH

Olive oil	6 butterfish
1 cup milk	½ cup flour
1 teaspoonful salt

Wash, clean, dry the fish carefully. Dissolve salt in milk and and dip fish in it. Roll lightly in flour and fry in olive oil. Fry quickly until brown on one side. Carefully turn and brown on other side. The flesh is so soft, fish will break if not handled carefully while cooking.

Pork Shoulder Steaks Prove Ideal Choice For Dinner Table

Everyone likes to serve individual steaks both for a family meal and for a guest dinner. Pork shoulder steaks such as those pictured above give you the rich, delicious flavor of pork in a form that is easy to serve, easy to prepare and, not to be overlooked, easy on the pocketbook.

The steaks pictured, cut from the pork shoulder, are most satisfactory when nearly an inch thick, Inez Willson, home economist, suggests. Brown them on both sides in a small amount of fat.

When brown, add three or four tablespoons of hot water, cover the pan and cook the steaks slowly until they are thoroughly done. About an hour should be allowed for steaks an inch thick. It is important to cook all cuts of pork thoroughly, for the rich flavor of the meat is developed fully when it is thoroughly cooked.

The steaks in the picture, sometimes called shoulder chops of pork, are served with steamed cauliflower and corn bread. Perhaps you'd like to cook the cauliflower in tomato juice to give it flavor slightly different, and good too, as well as color that's bound to make a pretty platter.

Two small sliced onions, a small stalk of celery diced and one-half teaspoon of powdered sage may be added to the steaks at the same time the water is added if the flavor of vegetables is desired with the meat.

Creole steaks make an entirely different dish.

Creole Steaks

4 shoulder steaks, 1 inch thick
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
6 stalks celery.
Salt and pepper.

Brown the chops on both sides in a small amount of fat. Place in a baking dish. Cover with diced celery and over all pour tomatoes. Season with salt and pepper. Cook 45 minutes to one hour in an oven at 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

"MY BAKING HAS TO BE SUCCESSFUL . . ."

says Mrs. Emily Lautz
Cooking School Director

"Working before an audience as I do, I can't afford to take the least chance on the way my baking will turn out. So I use Pillsbury's Best Flour exclusively. And I earnestly recommend this fine flour to every woman who wants to do the best possible baking."

Flours look alike but are so different!

If you've been going on the theory that all flours are pretty much alike, try Pillsbury's Best . . . and you'll be pleasantly surprised. For women who use Pillsbury's Best find these improvements in their baking:

1. Biscuits that are a richer golden-brown outside, a smooth creamy white inside, flakier in texture, better in flavor.
2. Pie crust that is more tender and more flaky.
3. Cakes that are fuller in flavor and stay fresh longer.
4. Bread with a better crust color, a more even, finer-grained texture, and a rich wheaty flavor that you'll enjoy.

It costs you only about half a cent more per recipe to improve your baking with Pillsbury's Best Flour. So won't you try a bag today?

The letter will request that an examination for firemen be held at the earliest time allowed by law. The present list does not expire until June 1, but the mayor said he wishes to have the list made larger for both police and firemen.

Police Exams March 4

The examination for the police eligibility list will be March 4 in the high school.

Mayor Greenawalt also is expected to ask a civil service examination for the appointment of a new chief to replace the late Thomas G. Bryan, but indicated this would not be held until after the examination for the eligibility list.

Catholic Parish At Cleveland Put Under Ban As It Blocks Priest's Entrance In Near Riot

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 19—An ecclesiastical interdict today banned approximately 1,000 members of a Cleveland Catholic parish from all sacraments of the church, except when in danger of death, after they prevented for the third time installation of a new priest.

In a demonstration of near-riot proportions, a crowd of 1,500 men, women and children yesterday barred Msgr. Floyd L. Begin, official of the Cleveland diocese, and Rev. Vincent Caruso, newly-appointed pastor, from property of Holy Redeemer church in an Italian district of the city's east side.

Sixty policemen and an escort of uniformed Knights of Columbus and Knights of St. John were unable to clear a path through the crowd to the church entrance.

The crowd shrieked, hooted, booed and yelled "go home" at the church dignitaries. Small boys threw snowballs at the plumed escort. Several persons were clubbed by police but none was taken to a hospital. Seven men were arrested and released on waivers pending appearance in municipal court.

During the disturbance Msgr. Begin announced "by authority of the archbishop you can not receive the sacraments of the church until the parish has done penance."

Later he explained members of the parish may not be married validly in the eyes of the church, nor receive sacraments of confirmation, baptism and penance while the interdict is in force. "It will not be lifted," he asserted, "until the parish receives without qualification the priest whom the archbishop sends as pastor. That priest is Father Caruso."

The interdict was the first in the history of the Cleveland diocese. The church and the parish school, which has 200 pupils, have been closed since a crowd barred Father Caruso from the church a week ago.

Archbishop Joseph Schrembs, who appointed Father Caruso to the pastorate, said he was "exceedingly sorry anything like this should happen. It is a real public scandal and makes a holy show of these people themselves."

Some members of the parish have expressed a desire for appointment of Rev. Louis Zedda, assistant for seven years to the late Rev. Martin Compagno, pastor.

WAR AT SEA

casualties of the war at sea or regular maritime hazards.

Britain's pressure on Norway for internment of the Altmark and Germany's demands for Norwegian action against the British placed the little neutral state ticklishly in the middle. She stood between diplomatic fronts of two belligerent powers.

Internment Of Ship Demanded

Germany already has protested over ineffective protection afforded by the Norwegian navy for the Altmark in Norwegian territorial waters, where a British boarding party Friday night attacked the Altmark and released more than 300 captive British seamen from the prison ship.

On the other hand, there was the British demand that the 12,000-ton Altmark be interned for the duration of the war on the grounds that she served as a German navy auxiliary by taking aboard, for transport to Germany, crewmen of seven British merchant ships sunk by the now-scuttled pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

Germany has demanded that the Oslo government take "all possible measures" again "the perpetrators" of the attack on the Altmark, and Norway Saturday formally called upon the British to return the prisoners of war, although they already had been landed in Scotland by the rescuing destroyer Cossack.

Cross-Complaint Made

Britain, however, anticipated Norway's diplomatic fire with a cross-complaint, demanding to know why Norwegian inspectors failed to discover that the British prisoners were aboard the Altmark while the German ship was being accorded the privileges of a belligerent's merchant ship—that is, right-of way through Norwegian territorial waters.

The British answer and counter-demand were made Saturday, but disclosed only yesterday.

LONDON, Feb. 19—The authoritative British Press association predicted today that Prime Minister Chamberlain will make a statement on the Altmark incident in the house of commons tomorrow.

NEW BUS FARES HERE WILL APPLY TUESDAY

Officials of the Valley Motor Transit Co. today announced city fares on the Newell line as far as the City hospital will go into effect Tuesday.

The change also will include transfers from all city lines to the Newell line within the city limits, or transfers from the Newell line to any other line on fares paid from the City hospital to the Diamond.

The change will in no way affect the fares to or from Newell, which will remain at 10 cents, bus company officials stated.

The change was made possible by an ordinance of council passed at the last regular meeting which changed the franchise of the line. Formerly persons riding from the Diamond to the hospital or returning paid the full fare of 10 cents.

WES FERRELL RETAINS BASEBALL GOLF TITLE

By The Associated Press.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 19 — Baseball and golf are becoming so closely allied it is difficult to realize that only a few years ago some managers were threatening to slap a fine on the first player they caught wielding a niblick.

The baseballer who doesn't golf now in his spare time is becoming almost a museum piece. Their annual tournament, which ended here yesterday, is destined within a very few years to become one of the winter's top sports events.

Wes Ferrell, now with the Brooklyns, won the title for the second straight time by licking Jack Russell in the 36-hole final, 2 to 1.

ELECTIONS WILL FACE VIGOROUS 'POLICING'

Gillette Declares Committee Will Keep Balloting Clean

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 — While the presidential races quickened following the selection of national convention dates, a vigorous policing of 1940 elections by a special senate committee was promised today by Sen. Gillette (D) of Iowa.

He called an organization meeting of the four other senators appointed by Vice President Garner to the campaign investigating group.

"I don't care who it hits or where it hits, it's to the interest of all American citizens to keep elections clean," Gillete said. "I'm sure it's the intention of this committee to do a thorough job."

A new factor this year is the Hatch act prohibiting political activity by the thousands of government employes and barring use of relief and other federal funds for political purposes.

None of the three Democrats named to the committee—Gillette, Miller (D) of Arkansas and Hill (D) of Alabama — has publicly urged a third term for President Roosevelt. The Republican members are senators Tobey (R) of New Hampshire and Reed (R) of Kansas.

COUNTY, 4 CITIES GET $7,547 RELIEF GRANT

Columbiana county and four of its subdivisions today received an allocation of $7,547 for January relief expenditures, announced in Columbus by the state welfare department.

The county gets $3,739; East Liverpool, $2,447; Wellsville, $724; East Palestine, $336, and Salem $301. The grants were made from a state allocation of $1,000,733, largest monthly contribution of the 1939-40 biennium, but the total was only 40.2 percent of the amount spent by city and relief groups.

William Hartsough, department relief consultant, said $1,000,000 appropriated for the month by the state legislature was augmented by $733 left over from December, when the state matches local expenditures equally.

The total January bill of $2,483,647 represented an increase of $485,196 over December which Mr. Hartsough attributed to curtailment of WPA activities due to extremely cold weather.

District Quick To Buy Tickets For Rubinoff Concert Friday

Women's Club To Present Violinist In Ceramic Here As Artist Resumes Tour After Radio, Screen Work

Officers of the East Liverpool Business and Professional Women's club today announced tickets are going rapidly for the Rubinoff concert at the Ceramic theater Friday night at 8:30.

One-half the block in the first 11 rows, all the seats in the rest of the orchestra and first rows of the balcony and two of the last eight rows in the balcony have been sold, the ticket committee reported.

Tickets are being sold by members of the club and at the Hall Music store on Fifth st.

Resumes National Tour

David Rubinoff, after seven years on radio which kept him in New York constantly, and a year in Hollywood making pictures, is resuming his national concert tour to meet the thousands of friends he has made over the airways.

He will play an unusual concert of the most popular numbers from his broadcasts together with some of his own compositions, "Dance of the Russian Peasant," "Romance," "Mon Reve d'Amour," "Danse Russe" and "Fiddlin' the Fiddle." He also will offer his own arrangements of "When Day is Done," "Sophisticated Lady" and others.

Appearing with Rubinoff will be his accompanist, Donald M. Comrie of New York, and a soprano, Miss Nita Carol.

Mr. Comrie, who is 23, began his musical studies with Harry Kellogg at Springfield, Mass and was active in musical circles there and in Hartford, Conn., at an early age.

At 13 he played with the Springfield string trio. Shortly after graduating from high school, he entered the Juilliard school of music in New York city and received his diploma in two years.

Selected By Rubinoff

As a result of a contest held in New York, Mr. Comrie was selected to accompany Rubinoff on his concert tour.

Miss Carol has established her musical reputation as a singer in Radio City music hall and with the Philadelphia Opera Co.

After establishing herself as a singer, she won a scholarship at the Curtis institute in Philadelphia where she studied with Madame Gregory and Sylvan Levin.

She sang in England for nine months and continued her studies in London with Esther Hulbert. Upon returning to the United States she joined the Philadelphia Opera Co.

WEATHER

shoveled snow into city trucks to be carried away.

Additional trouble in cleaning the streets was met when most storm sewers in the downtown section became filled with melting snow and slush and in some instances could not carry away the water fast enough.

Crews were concentrating on intersections and main streets in the business district this morning. Safety-Service Director William Watkin directed the work.

School Busses Delayed

School busses in Columbiana county "got through" today but were late in transporting the pupils to the various schools. The state and the county highway departments had about 100 men and many pieces of equipment on the job of cleaning up the mess.

Although bus schedules were back to normal today, carriers experienced difficulty in making runs Sunday. Extra buses were assigned city routes Sunday, while interurban service was delayed from 15 to 18 minutes.

While the Ohio river was reported falling here with a level of 12.2 feet at noon it was rising at some downriver points. At Cincinnati, officials noted a 4.2 rise since 8 a. m. Sunday to a stage of 33.2 feet. Rivermen here, however, forecast a higher level tomorrow and a continued rise was seen all along the waterway.

Three minor accidents were reported to the police and blamed by them on the storm snow and slippery condition of the streets. Patrolmen estimated many more minor traffic mishaps occurred, but were not reported as traffic in many places was held up.

Autos Meet Head-On

Miss Kathryn McDole of 748 St. Clair ave., driving north on St. Clair, and P. L. Dailey of Newell, driving south, hit head-on at the curve near the intersection of Walnut st. at 4:15 p. m. Sunday police reported.

Both cars were badly damaged, police said, but neither driver was hurt.

John W. Palmer of 683 Lincoln ave. reported to police he was driving south on St. Clair ave. at 2:30 p. m. when another car, coming north, ran into him head-on.

The other driver took his name and said he was covered by insurance, then drove away, Mr. Palmer told police.

The front wheel and front springs on Mr. Palmer's car were broken, he reported.

Saturday afternoon Stanley Hargraves of 900 Peake st. reported to police his car was sidewiped by another machine, which he said did not stop, on Dresden ave. The fender and bumper on his car were damaged, he said.

Other Sections Hit

The Akron, Canton and Youngstown districts bore the brunt of the storm. Heaviest snow fell from Ashland and Wayne counties eastward to Pennsylvania.

Akron rested in a big pool of water as rain melted the 7-inch snowfall. Street cars stalled. Broken wires darkened the Portage lakes district. Green and Springfield township schools closed.

Four heavy power lines broke in the Youngstown vicinity, cutting off lights in a section of that city and suburban Waterford and Cornersburg.

Ice and snow-coated trees fell across wires at Canton, breaking a primary circuit and affecting service to 400 homes. Another break affected North Industry, five miles south of Canton.

The weather bureau said the temperature would continue above freezing tonight with light rain and possibly a little more snow.

Charles De Molios, 43, yard foreman, was struck and killed by a Baltimore & Ohio railroad switch engine while clearing snow and ice from a switch at Youngstown.

A Cleveland-bound bus of the Lake Shore Coach Co. skidded off Lake road near Lorain. None of the six passengers was injured.

JAMES WILL TAKE WPA FIGHT TO WASHINGTON

By The Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 19 — Gov. Arthur H. James made a last-minute check today of state records to carry direct to the national capital his complaint that WPA is "short-changing" Pennsylvania.

The governor accepted an invitation to appear tomorrow before an "open meeting" of bi-partisan congressional leaders to present his claim for a larger share of works projects administration funds for the state.

James expressed the hope through his secretary that Col. F. C. Harrington, federal WPA administrator, will reconsider his refusal to attend any "open debate" of the subject. He took the position that the meeting should be open to the public.

Harrington announced he "willingly" will discuss WPA employment with James and the congressmen but insisted that the meeting be closed because of what he described as a "highly-complicated" subject.

ROOSEVELT CRUISES IN PACIFIC'S WATERS

Visits Canal Zone Defenses During 3-Hour Auto Trip

By The Associated Press.

ABOARD THE U. S. S. LANG, Feb. 19 — President Roosevelt cruised calm Pacific waters today toward undisclosed fishing grounds after completing a Sunday inspection tour of the Panama Canal Zone's improved defenses, now operating on a wartime basis.

Amid the booming of 21-gun salutes, the President drove past lines of rigid soldiers along palm-fringed roads in a three-hour auto trip to inspect at first-hand the progress made in developing the canal's Atlantic coast defense system.

The Canal Zone, garrisoned by 18,000 soldiers, has become—as a result of presidential orders— the United States' second most heavily-armed position. Hawaii has 22,000 army regulars.

LENTEN SEASON DOESN'T DEMAND POINTLESS MENU

Flavorsome, Balanced Diet Possible; Here Are Some Hints That Will Help

During Lent we learn that self-denial is good for the soul. We give up things that we like, and we give up meat. But we don't have to give in to pointless menus and dreary substitutes, and surrender the essentials of a flavorsome, balanced diet.

Serve plenty of oranges and grapefruits and lemons for proper vitamin C content. Mash sweet potatoes, pumpkin or yellow squash, using orange juice as the liquid for a new and nutritious flavor combination.

Macaroni And Cheese

Old-fashioned Macaroni and Cheese is the sort of dish that is liked the year 'round. Make it with one and one-half cups uncooked macaroni, broken into one-inch pieces; one and one-half cups grated American cheese, two tablespoons melted butter, three tablespoons prepared mustard, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon black pepper, two and one-fourth cups milk, two-thirds cup buttered bread crumbs.

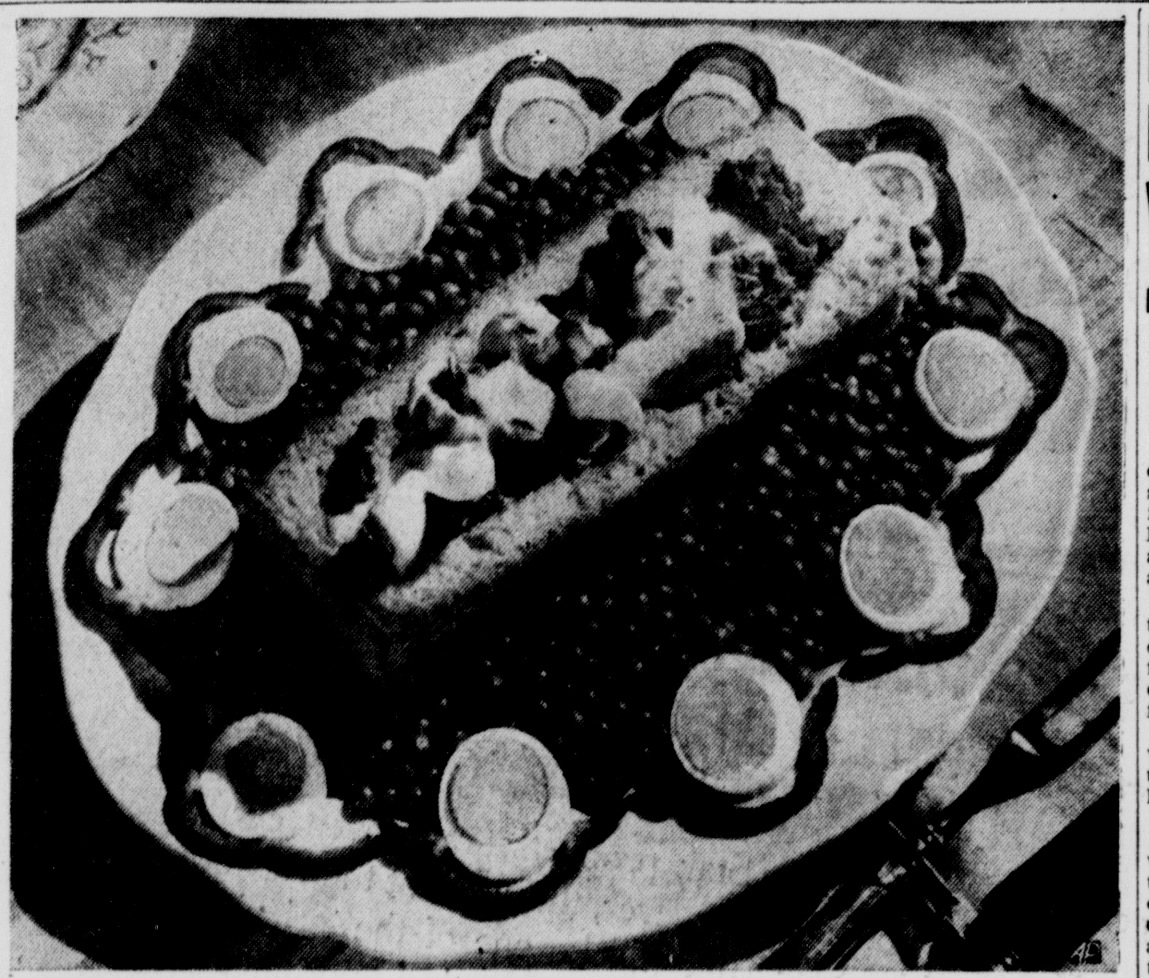
Cook macaroni in large amount of boiling, salted water until tender. Drain. Place alternate layers of macaroni and cheese in buttered baking dish. Blend butter, mustard, salt and pepper. Add milk. Pour over macaroni mixture. Bake in 350 degree F. oven for one hour. Top with bread crumbs and bake 15 minutes longer or until crumbs are browned. Makes six to eight portions.

Salmon Chowder A Treat

Salmon Chowder Pie is a Lenten treat. Make it with four tablespoons chopped onion, four tablespoons fat, four tablespoons flour, one cup water drained from cooked vegetables, two cups milk, teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one and one-half cups diced cooked potatoes, one cup cooked sliced carrots, one cup cooked peas, one pound cooked salmon and one recipe bran-biscuit.

Simmer onion in fat until tender. Add flour; stir to smooth paste. Add liquid ingredients; cook until thickened. Add seasonings, vegetables and flaked, boned salmon. Pour into large greased baking dish, cover with bran-biscuit dough rolled to fit dish. Bake in 425 degree F. oven about 20 mintes or until biscuits are done. Makes 10 servings.

Bran-biscuit dough is made with one-half cup bran; three-fourths cup buttermilk, one and one-half cups flour, teaspoon baking powder, teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon soda and one-half cup shortening. Soak bran in buttermilk. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and soda together. Cut in shortening until mixture is like coarse cornmeal. Add soaked bran; stir till dough follows fork around bowl. Turn onto floured board, knead lightly a few seconds; roll or pat to one-eighth inch thickness.



A TASTY BREAD BASKETFUL OF CREAMED SALMON, garnished with peas and egg slices. It would tickle any palate, especially a Lenten one.

VEGETABLES DEMAND VARIED PREPARATION

Keep Family Interested By Changing Methods Often

We have been convinced pretty thoroughly that vegetables are a necessary and important part of the diet. But sometimes it's a struggle to get Junior to eat his carrots, or his spinach, and all too often Dad asserts that he's satisfied with meat and potatoes, gravy and pie!

Perhaps just changing the method of preparing and serving them is all you need to do to arouse the family's interest in vegetables.

The food value of vegetables may be depleted sadly and flavor and appearance spoiled by the method of cooking. Over-cooking destroys vitamins, causes strong vegetables to become bitter, mild ones insipid strong vegetables darken and green ones lose their color with too long cooking.

Cooking in a large amount ot water means that precious minerals are poured away when this excess water is drained off.

To preserve food value, flavor and appearance, vegetables should be cooked in the shortest possible time and in the smallest amount of water.

Tragedy Of Pork

Broiling Fails To Bring Out Best In Chops

PORK chops are to menu planning what resolutions are to the new year.

Or perhaps pork chops don't play as important a part in menu planning as they do in those last-minute affairs when it's a quarter to 6, there's nothing at home for dinner, and with one breathless dash you're in the meat market ordering a couple of chops because "I can get them ready in a hurry."

And therein lies the clue to the tragic end of many pork chops. Only by long, slow and thorough cooking can you develop the true flavor of pork. That is why you cannot broil chops successfully. This method is too quick to bring ou the full flavor of the meat. Pork always must be cooked well done.

The most successful method of preparing pork chops, is to heat a heavy frying-pan until very hot. Add about one tablespoon of fat or, if the chops have a good covering of fat place them in the pan with the fat side down. This will brown them and at the same time cook out enough fat to grease the frying-pan. After the chops are browned nicely on both sides the heat should be reduced the frying pan covered closely and the chops cooked slowly until thoroughly done. The chops should be turned occasionally so that they will cook uniformly.

PIE HINTS LISTED FOR MALE COOKS

'Brave' Young Men Prepare Parties For Girl Friends

Turn about is fair play when Leap Year rolls around. Many brave young men are planning not only to give parties for their fair friends, but to do the cooking as well!

We know a group of ambitious young bachelors who recently gave a supper for the girls they wanted to impress. It was a simple but satisfying supper, with big bowls of delicious soup with lots of celery and olives to eat with it; then a satisfying and delicious one-crust pie with a creamy filling.

Even inexperienced male cooks won't find pie making a chore if they use failure-proof recipes calling for sweetened condensed milk. This way a pie to the queen's taste is a simple affair to prepare.

A Man Can Make These

Here are two pies that the lordly male can easily prepare. Cherry Meringue Pie is first. It is made with one and one-third cups (one can) sweetened condensed milk, blended with one-fourth cup lemon juice, and one-fourth cup sour red pitted cherries, drained (No. 2 can) and the yolks of two eggs.

Pour into baked nine-inch pie shell. Cover with a maringue made by beating two egg whites until stiff and adding two tablespoons sugar. Bake in 350 degree F. oven 10 minutes or until brown. Chill before serving.

For a swell lemon coconut meringue pie, blend one and one-third cups sweetened condensed milk, one-half cup lemon juice, grated rind of lemon or one-fourth teaspoon lemon extract, two egg yolks and one-half cup shredded coconut.

Cover With Meringue

Pour into baked 8-inch pie shell. Cover with a meringue made by beating two egg whites until stiff, and adding two tablespoons sugar. Sprinkle one-fourth cup coconut over top. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F) 10 minutes or until brown. Chill before serving.

We know one male cook who always makes a salad if there is any cold boiled or baked fish left over, and friend wife always sees that there is. The fish is flaked and measured. To it is added as much diced celery as there is fish. Season with salt and pepper.

Add catsup to mayonnaise until it is the color of freshly-cooked shrimp. Mix with fish. Pack firmly in mold and chill. Turn out on platter with salad greens. Garnish with raw vegetables, such as onion, cucumber, radishes, green pepper and tomato.

ROAST BECOMES EASY DISH FOR HOUSEWIFE

Time was when the homemaker who planned a roast for dinner sentenced herself to several hours in the kitchen, literally tied to the cook stove. Glance through the directions for roasting in one of the older cookbooks.

A high temperature was recommended and food cooked at a high temperature will bear watching. Then, "baste every 10 minutes," reads the recipe and one cannot wander very far afield under these conditions!

All that has been changed and today a roast for dinner is one of the easiest dishes in the world to prepare, for with a modern range, roasting is virtually automatic.

The roast is placed in an open roasting pan with the fat side up, after adding salt and pepper. This does away with a journey to the range every 10 minutes to "baste", because as the fat melts it runs over and through the meat doing the basting for you.

Roasting is done at a constant temperature, too. Set the electric thermostat at 300° for beef, veal, lamb and smoked pork and at 350° for a fresh pork roast.

Mincemeat Cookies

For something different, try mincemeat-filled cookies. Spread 3-inch round sugar cooky dough with prepared mincemeat. Fold over and press the edges and prick the tops with a fork. Bake 10 minutes in a moderate oven. This is a cooky change welcomed for the lunch boxes—men especially like them.

NOVEL METHODS HELP 'DRESS UP' VEGETABLE FARE

Dashing Sauce, Unique Cuts And Varied Flavor Blends Bring Needed Variety

Is there bickering in your family over the same old vegetables served in the same old way? Then it's time to ring some changes. Brighten up the old reliables with a dashing sauce, snappy topper or a novel flavor blend.

Add color contrasts and garnish touches. Cut the vegetables into different shapes and vary some by fashioning them into round, ring or loaf moulds. Put in fruits and fruit juices for subtle seasonings.

Here is a carrot ring—new and vitamin filled. The ring can be used as a meat substitute for luncheon, supper or dinner.

Cook In Boiling Water

Cook carrots in boiling salted water until tender, then press through a coarse sieve. Take 2 cupsful (about 3 cups of cubed uncooked will make this much) and add 3 tablespoons melted butter, ¼ teaspoon each of chopped parsley, onion and paprika, 2 tablespoons flour and ½ cup soft bread crumbs. Mix in ½ teaspoon of salt, 3 eggs, beaten, and ⅔ cup hot milk:

Pour the mixture into a well buttered ring mould. Bake 30 minutes in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven. Unmould carefully, fill and surround with creamed mushrooms, buttered green beans, cheese sauce or buttered peas.

TANGERINE SWEET POTATOES

(Serves Four)

4 boiled sweet potatoes
½ cup granulated sugar
¼ cup butter
¼ cup water
Tangerine sections

Cut cooked sweet potatoes into halves, lengthwise. Arrange in shallow low baking dish so that there will be only one layer. Heat butter, sugar and water to form a thin syrup. Pour syrup over potatoes. Bake uncovered in a moderate oven (375° F.) until syrup has been absorbed by potatoes. (About 30 minutes.) Baste potatoes with syrup a few times during baking. Just before serving, place tangerine sections (unpeeled but free of membrane) generously over top of potatoes. Sugar lightly and place under broiler for few moments until tangerines are heated through.

Serve carrots and turnips together. Cut the carrots into small slices and the turnips into thin strips. Cook separately in boiling, salted water, drain well and put together with a sauce—cheese, savory or regular vegetable sauce.

Carrot balls go fancy when mixed in with creamed potatoes, hard-cooked eggs or celery. Cook the carrots and then cut out balls with a French vegetable cutter.

A mixture of grated cheese and chopped parsley dresses up the tops of plain, seasoned green beans, turnips, cabbage, onions or cauliflower. Slip under the broiler for a second to brown.

Grated hard-cooked egg yolks and chopped pimientos or green peppers also dress up the tops of escalloped mixtures. Add topping during the last 10 minutes of baking.

Corn is a good mixer. It ties up flavorfully with cooked egg plant cubes, celery, tomatoes or okra. Serve it well seasoned in creamed or escalloped forms.

For a new meat or fowl garnish there are parsnip cakes. Cook and mash parsnips, season well with salt, pepper, celery salt and butter. Shape into ½-inch cakes.

OHIO'S FARMERS WARNED AGAINST BOOM FROM WAR

State Leaders Don't Expect Flood Of Food Orders To Reach United States

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 19—Ohio farmers were warned today not to expect European strife to generate a boom for American agricultural products.

Contrary to a recent statement by former President Herbert Hoover, Ohio farm leader said they do not anticipate a flood of food orders from the belligerent.

Hoover was quoted as saying, "Sooner or later, the demand for large quantities of food will hit the United States, although it may not come until after the war."

Three Give Warnings

Dr. J. J. Falconer, chairman of Ohio State university's rural economics department; John T. Brown, state director of agriculture, and Perry Green, Ohio Farm Bureau president, all adviced against increased farm production on the basis of possible demands from Europe.

"The European war, if it lasts long enough, will call for some increases, but we don't know when it might end. I would not advise farmers to increase production," Dr. Falconer said, adding that he expects some price gains but "no boom".

Brown, pointing out that the United States already has surpluses of some products, said he cannot predict definite effects of the war but advised that the United States avoid overproduction in expectation of a great foreign demand because the demand might not develop or peace might be declared. Unpredictable weather conditions also should be considered, he said.

'Level May Hold Steady'

"I expect, if the war continues on the present basis, the farm product price level will hold steady some increases, but there will be no big increase in the commodity price level." Green said.

"England is managing her sterling and forcing other countries to her own exchange basis," he continued, adding that England was trading as much as possible within the empire and with allies or possible allies.

"The end of the war will mean an economic lapse, small if it comes early or big if the war lasts a long time. I would not advise heavy farm production," Green concluded.

Guy Dowdy, land use planning director at Ohio State university, cited a world wheat surplus, much of it stored in Europe, and commented, "the effect of the war scare on the agricultural market already has passed away and there is nothing to indicate that farm prices will improve appreciably during the next year."

ATHENS, Feb. 19 — Coroner A. L. Pritchard investigated today the fatal shooting of Joseph Uphazy, Ohio university sophomore from near south Akron. Fellow students found him dead in a rooming house near the campus yesterday, a bullet wound over his heart. A .22 caliber rifle lay nearby, the coroner reported.

WOMAN, 24, CHARGED WITH MAN'S MURDER

Tells Of Shooting In Field As Victim Begged For Life

By The Associated Press.

LAKE CHARLES, La., Feb. 19—Sheriff Henry Reid said today he has placed a murder charge against Mrs. Claude Henry, 24-year-old Beaumont, Tex., brunet, for the slaying of a 200-pound salesman who knelt naked in a rice field near here and begged for his life.

The woman, the sheriff said, led officers Saturday to a rice straw stack where they found the bullet-pierced body of J. C. Calloway, 41, of Houston, Tex.

Sheriff Reid gave a coroner's jury yesterday what he said was Mrs. Henry's account of the slaying:

Mrs. Henry and a man she refused to identify were picked up by Calloway last Wednesday between Orange, Tex., and Vinton, La. Both were heavily armed from a Beaumont, Tex., robbery netting 16 guns.

They forced the salesman into the rumble seat of his car, shut the door and took him to a deserted rice field.

"I made him take off all his clothes and then I shot him," the sheriff quoted Mrs. Henry as saying. Meantime, Galloway was pleading for his life.

convention. Others on the committee are Charles Sawyer and Mrs. Mildred Jaster, national committee members; Earl Hanefeld, central committee chairman, and Arthur L. Limbach, executive committee chairman.

County Dispute Settled

Forty-four district delegates, each with a full vote, will be selected within the congressional districts.

The committees also settled two county factional disputes by recognizing Ray. T. Miller, former Cleveland mayor, as Cuyahoga county chairman in place of Burr Gongwer, and choosing W. B. Kilpatrick of Warren, as Trumbull county "boss" over Leroy Marceau.

Meanwhile, a trace of discord stirred in the Republican ranks as former Gov. Harry L. Davis scored State Chairman Ed Schorr for asking party leaders to express preferences from a list of potential candidates for U. S. senator and state auditor.

"It is certainly no part of the duty of a party chairman to nominate candidates," Davis said in a letter to Schorr.

"I for one do not propose to question the good judgment of the rank and file to join in a plan clearly designed to evade both the letter and the spirit of the open primary system."

Sawyer To Call Party Heads As Soon As Possible

By The Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 19—Declaring he "greatly regretted Sen. Donahey's refusal to become Ohio's "favorite son" candidate for the presidential nomination, Charles Sawyer, Democratic national committeeman said today he will call party leaders together in Columbus "as soon as possible" to map a course of action.

"I greatly regret that Sen. Donahey does not feel that he can accept the offer which was tendered him," said Sawyer. "As Democratic national committeeman, I will accept the responsibility of undertaking to carry out the wishes of the committee which met and took action pursuant to Sen. Donahey's suggestion.

CIVIC LEAGUE TO ASK CITY ACTION ON RUNS

A committee from the East End Civic league, headed by Fred F. Young, president, will interview city officials this week in an effort to get action on the improvement for covering of East End runs.

Mr. Young said he has had complaints from several residents who said the runs are full of sediment and trash.

A. S. Gibbons, Norman Haines and Benjamin Ziegler began work Sunday on an audit of the league books, which will be presented March 11 at the next regular meeting. Mr. Young said there is ice on the Columbian park skating pond but it is slushy and unfit for skating.

NATION ACCORDS CHICKEN A DAILY PLACE ON MENU

Bird Formerly Brought Out Only During Holiday Now Has Become Standby

Chicken, formerly brought out only on holidays or when the minister came to supper, has become a standby as well as a special treat in lots of households.

More and more families are serving chicken frequently, not only for its special flavor but also because of its hundred-and-one cooking adaptations.

There are all sorts of ways to stretch a chicken, too — blending it with savory sauces, mixing it in cooked vegetables and meats, or turning out that old favorite, Chicken Pot Pie.

Roaster Most Satisfactory

To make the most out of chicken for winter use, buy a roaster or fowl, sometimes called broiler or stewer.

Roasters weigh from 3½ to 5 pounds. Select one with a plump breast, short legs, the fat evenly distributed and with the flesh well covering wings and legs.

A roaster is tender enough to be cooked whole, cut up and sprinkled with flour and seasonings and cooked in a small amount of fat on top the stove, or cut up, flour covered and smothered with milk and water in a covered casserole and baked in a slow oven until tender —about 2½ hours.

Tip For A Salad

Since chicken for salad needs to be moist and very well flavored, use a stewed roaster. Here's a tip for the best salad ever: Cover the roaster, whole or cut, with water. Add a teaspoon of salt for each 3 cups of water. Put a lid on the kettle and slowly bring the water to the boiling point.

Simmer until the chicken falls off the bone easily — about 1½ hours, maybe longer. Let the chicken cool in the stock, chill until time to make the salad. Then dice the chicken and blend it into the other ingredients. When serving chicken in salad or minced forms, chill it before cutting, to avoid stringiness.

Stock left from stewed chicken never goes a begging. It's a valuable asset to gravy, sauces, creamed or escalloped mixtures or pot pies.

Fowls Have Good Flavor

Fowls are older and larger than roasters and less tender. But, since they have an excellent flavor and more meat, they are a good buy. They need long, slow cooking with some seasonings (parsley, celery, green pepper) for extra flavor.

The fat skimmed off the top when the stock is chilled can be used in place of other fat in sauces, pastry crust or for general seasoning. And it makes grand crust for pot pie.

You can work wonders with a cup or so of well seasoned stock and some cooked chicken. Thicken the stock, add some tomato juice, chopped celery and onions. Serve hot, poured over boiled rice heated with the chicken. Or make a rice ring, fill and surround it with the stock thickened and combined with the chicken, a few mushrooms, peas or any leftover vegetable.

Also Noodles And Chicken

Then there are always noodles and chicken—boil the noodles in chicken stock until tender, thicken the mixture, celery, carrots, green peppers and onions. Put in a little thyme, chopped parsley and basil for that new herb flavor.

That de luxe dish, Chicken a la King, calls for a delicious creamy white sauce heightened with some chopped cooked green peppers, celery and piminetos. Add a few cooked mushrooms, half as much chicken as sauce and simmer a few minutes.

When ready to serve blend in an egg yolk for each cup of sauce. Cook only a minute and serve at once. The egg makes a creamier sauce and increases the richness. Serve poured over toast or in pastry shells.

TWO YOUNG COOKS FORM a mutual admiration society as they prepare Chicken a la Maryland.

Novel Recipes Bring New Flavor To Dishes

HERE'S an olla-podrida, a mixture of recipes all tried and tested and all delicious. It's not too late for a delicious cool salad, so get busy with a package of lime-flavored gelatin, a cup of hot water, three-quarters cup canned grapefruit juice, one teaspoon vinegar, one-half cup each grated cucumber and finely-diced cucumber. Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add canned grapefruit juice, vinegar, salt and grated cucumber. Strain; then chill until slightly thickened. Season diced cucumber with a dash of salt and fold into slightly-thickened gelatin. Turn into individual molds. Chill till firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce and garnish with creamy mayonnaise. It serves four to six.

Hearts of celery Norway is a delectable appetizer. Wash hearts of celery and cut in lengthwise pieces, crisping in refrigerator. Mash contents of one can of sardines and combine with one-half teaspoon French mustard, juice of one-half lemon and four ounces butter. Season with salt and pepper and strain mixture through a sieve. Place in refrigerator to chill. Just before serving fill celery centers with sardine paste. Garnish with parsley sprigs and lemon.

Fruit Cocktail

Frozen fruit cocktail is another elegant beginner. Ingredients include one-half envelope plain gelatin, two tablespoons cold water, four cups canned grapefruit-orange segments, one-half cup canned crushed pineapple, one cup sugar and one-quarter teaspoon salt. Pour cold water in bowl and sprinkle gelatin on top of water. Place bowl in or over boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add grapefruit and orange segments, crushed pineapple, sugar and salt. Turn into freezing trays and stir occasionally. Freeze until stiff enough to serve. Serve in glasses and garnish with mint or pieces of fruit. This recipe serves six.

Refrigerator ginger snaps call for one-half cup each butter, sugar, molasses and all-bran, two cups flour and one and one-half teaspoons each of ginger, cinnamon and soda, and one-quarter teaspoon salt. Cream butter and sugar thoroughly and work into creamed mixture a small amount at a time. Knead and shape into a roll about one and one-half inches in diameter. Wrap roll in waxed paper, covering the ends so that dough will not dry out. Store in refrigerator until firm. Slice very thin and bake on ungreased cookie sheets in moderate (375 F.) oven for 10 minutes. Will yield 60 cookies two inches in diameter.

All-Bran Muffins

All-bran tea muffins are delicious, too. This recipe calls for one cup all-bran, two-thirds cup milk, three tablespoons shortening, one-half cup brown sugar, one egg, one cup flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt and one-half cup chopped nut meats. Soak bran in milk. Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add egg and beat till creamy. Add soaked all-bran and milk to creamed mixture. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together; combine with nut meats; add to first mixture, stirring only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in a 425 F. oven for 20 minutes. It yields 16 muffins two inches in diameter.

Baked apples are a masculine favorite. Bake them in muffin cups to help them retain their shape.

Dressing Table Helps Brighten The Boudoir

By ELEANOR ROSS

EVEN the simplest of bedrooms, boudoirs or informal sitting rooms can be dressed up with a make-up or dressing table. But remember that ingenuity and good taste are more important than expenditure, for the trick is in making something original, of using what one has, rather than going out and buying a costly piece.

One of the prettiest dressing tables we have seen cost about ten dollars in all. The smart gal went up into the attic and found just what she wanted. It was a discarded occasional table with two drawers.

She had the legs shortened, the piece scraped and re-finished in black and gilt. An old mirror had its frame similarly treated, and the result was a handsome dressing table.

Black Oil Silk Skirts

Skirts of black oil silk gave it a luxury touch.

So look around, for any corner or occasional table may be used as an extra dressing table with the aid of a wall mirror and a bench. One of those sofa tables, with its drop leaf ends extended and a mirror added, makes for one of those roomy yet small dressing tables that women seek but never seem to find.

And if there is an old desk due to go into discard, pause, a moment. Wouldn't it do grand duty as a dressing table, the desk with its drawer space? Of course it would.

We went to work on one of those pedestal desks with four drawers on either side. We had some mirror glass topping left from an old dressing table. This was cut down to fit over the top. The desk was scraped and refinished in pale biscuit color with gilt trim.

Two handsome little lamps and a round wall mirror gave the desk the real dressing table look. Then we snooped around at sales until we found a round bench with a top of biscuit-colored leather. The result is a really handsome dressing table with plenty of drawer space.

Twin Cabinets Suitable

Twin cabinets or commodes joined by a shelf make a swell improvisation on the dressing table theme. An unframed round mirror above the shelf and a suitable lamp on each cabinet or commode, and there you have a luxurious, beautiful and useful piece of furniture, something different from the usual table-draped-with-skirts sort of thing that used to be considered tops in improvised dressing tables.

We know one girl who, unable to buy a dressing table, had two long glass shelves made and placed at a convenient height against the wall. Later the shelves were topped by a long, unframed piece of mirror glass and, together with one of those leatherette and chromium stools, the whole thing revolved itself into a luxurious and useful make-up space.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Green Light For Romeos

THERE are some things that we really can't believe. The latest of these is the widely-publicized discovery of a west coast physician that kissing is a fine health exercise, which cures or prevents colds by generating enough heat to kill germs and making for better circulation.

Not so long ago the medicos were raising a great hue and cry against osculation, as a germ-promoter and purveyor. It was, they said, most unhealthy and infectious. You might, they declared, catch anything by free-and-easy kissing—anything but a husband!

Little sanitary kiss-protectors were put on the market and recommended to all kissable girls and kissing Romeos. You were supposed to carry them around in your pocket, like a lipstick, in case of sudden emergency.

Didn't Become Popular

But, unlike the lipstick, they did not become popular. The girls felt that a pocketful of kiss-protectors looked too optimistic or too premeditated; and the men all seemed to prefer their kisses like their Scotch—"neat" and undiluted with caution or medicine.

A kiss, to have any charm or meaning or flavor, for a man, should be spontaneous; and if there is anything that bores a woman it is a cautious or luke-warm kiss — the kind a man gives you when he is afraid of being caught by the other girl.

Naturally, the medical edict against kissing made the custom more popular than ever, just as prohibition increased drinking. Anything is so much more alluring when it is "verboten". Man is a contrary animal—and woman just loves to pass red lights.

Medicos Change Their Minds

But now that the medicos have changed their minds and have come out boldly in favor of kissing as a scientific health precaution, a hygienic exercise, what will become of the art? Or the popular pastime?

Every time a man tries to kiss you, you will have a chilling suspicion that he only wants to increase his circultaion and get rid of a cold! And a man will run from a girl at the first sneeze or cough for fear she may seize him and kiss him, in a desperate attempt to work off a case of influenza.

The great feminine question will no longer be, "Do you love me, darling?" but, "Do you really love me —or are you just trying to ward off bronchial pneumonia?"

Or, "Darling, tell me that it's love—and not just that you've been sitting in a draught!"

We'd hate to see the ancient art of kissing degenerate into a cold cure, like those plugged on the radio. We don't believe it's a reliable remedy. Some of our most famous and violent colds have been caught by kissing. And although we believe in progress, honestly, we wouldn't kiss Clark Gable if he had the sniffles!

GUFFEY DENIES U. S. JOB OFFER

Says Roosevelt Didn't Seek To Bring His Withdrawal

Special To The Review.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 — Sen. Joseph F. Guffey denied Saturday he had been offered the post of the comptroller general of the United States if he would retire from this year's senatorial contest in Pennsylvania.

"President Roosevelt," he declared, "never made such an offer, and never discussed the matter with me. I admit that I have heard of the subject before, but only in connection with casual and indefinite conversations that didn't mean anything.

"And you can say for me that I wouldn't accept this position or any other appointive post if it were offered in this manner and connection.

Won't Be 'Lame Duck'

"I don't intend to be a lame duck. When Joe Guffey is retired from the public service it will be by the voters and nobody else — and if and when that happens Joe Guffey is going back into the oil business."

Meanwhile no promising candidate has appeared against Sen. Guffey for the primary fight and predictions are increasing that he may be unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

Congressman Patrick J. Boland, Scranton Democrat who is majority whip of the house, forecast today, "There will be no primary fight."

Mr. Boland, one of the congressmen who have been counseling party peace, was one of a group that called on President Roosevelt this week in behalf of Sen. Guffey. Afterward Mr. Roosevelt said he had indorsed nobody, that the visitors had told him many things, and that he had told them nothing.

Williams Sees Davis

On the other side of the political fence, Charles S. Williams, Lycoming county district attorney, was a Washington visitor today. He talked with Sen. James J. Davis and attempted to get in touch with several Republican congressmen who apparently were not at their offices.

Mr. Williams was described as still willing to make a fight for the Republican senatorial nomination against Jay Cooke of Philadelphia, the choice of the Joseph N. Pew group.

He is deferring decision, it was said, until he had conferred with a number of Republican leaders not in full sympathy with the Pew leadership.

"I am very friendly to this young man," said Sen. Davis. "I did not advise him on whether he should be a candidate — that decision should always be left to the man most involved."

Workers Show Skill For Ceramic Artists

AT most ceramic meetings or pottery exhibits the finished ware gets the spotlight, but when the art division of the American Ceramic society convened last week in Pittsburgh, the skill and workmanship behind a finished piece of ware took the stage.

More than 200 students and ceramic artists watched Leon Brindley, head of mold department, and James Clutter, his assistant, of the Hall China Co. here, demonstrate jiggering and mold making, with full explanation of the processes.

The exhibit, arranged by the Hall China Co., was given in the ceramics department the University of Pittsburgh on the 30th floor of the Cathedral of Learning. J. Palin Thorley of East Liverpool, head of the department, invited those attending the meeting to the exhibition.

The exhibit was particularly valuable, Mr. Thorley explained, in that it showed ceramic artists and students the great skill of craftsmen working in the factories of the East Liverpool pottery center.

'IMPROVING BUSINESS' HELD INDUSTRY'S GOAL

By The Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 19 — Charles R. Hook, president of the American Rolling Mills Co., views industry's goal as business improvement "with full recognition and acceptance of social responsibilities."

The former president of the National Association of Manufacturers told stockholders of the federal home loan bank here last week that good employment relations are necessary.

Industry believes the Wagner act should be amended, Hook asserted, "in the light of the overwhelming demand for such action."

Increased purchasing power can be provided through greater production of essential goods, Hook declared.

Youth Found Hanged

COLUMBUS, Feb. 19 — The possibility that 16-year-old Wendell D. Postle Jr. was the victim of his own experiment after viewing a hanging in a motion picture was pondered today by Coroner E. E. Smith. The youth, son of Dr. W. D. Postle, dean of Ohio State university's dental college, was found hanged with a rope from a basement steampipe at his home. Dr. Smith said he found no evidence indicating deliberate suicide.

BLOOD RUNS COLD

By Ann Demarest

SATURDAY: Lathrop's wife had an opportunity to murder Joan Kent while she was waiting for Lathrop to come out of the apartment house. Christine finds a note added to her list of questions telling her to keep out. Later the paper disappears.

CHAPTER 24

Episode In The Night

THE room seemed suddenly warm and oppressive. I couldn't take my eyes from Richard's thin, pale face. It was a very unpleasant sensation, the thought that he might be involved.

But I kept forgetting the others in the house: Adrianne Wells alone in the front apartment; Mr. Kimball and Ishi in the shop; Whitefield in his room up on the third floor, and Mrs. Evans, with her long ears, in the attic.

Dirck was examining the board closely. "I wouldn't mention this to anyone," he cautioned us, looking up with grave eyes. "Someone is evidently trying to frighten you, Chris. It may be just a practical joke."

"I wish I thought so," I said with some asperity.

"What is this all about, anyway?" Richard looked at Dirck.

And briefly Dirck explained it to him. Then he turned to me. "Do me a favor, Chris. This might not do any good, but I'd like to experiment. Before you go to bed tonight make another list and tack it to the board, just as you did before.

Tomorrow we may have another visit from this person. And try not to touch the board any more than you can help. There may be fingerprints."

"I hate to be used as bait," I said, but finally I agreed with some reluctance.

It gave me a queer feeling to have my apartment enlisted to lure a murderer. And it was evidently a person who kept a close watch on all of my moves. I'd been out of my room less than ten minutes to go down to the corner, and in that short time the paper was taken.

With someone so watchful I dreaded spending another night alone in my apartment on the fire escape. My feelings must have been pretty obvious because Dirck smiled reassuringly.

"I wouldn't worry if I were you. I hardly think anything will happen tonight," he said, belying all of those previous emphatic warnings. "And I'm going to spend the night with Richard, if he'll let me."

He turned to Richard, who nodded.

"If you want anything, Chris, just tap on the steam pipe there in the corner three times. I'll hear it and tap back and be with you immediately."

"What about me?" Mary Ann asked in her high-pitched voice. "You don't seem to be thinking much about my safety."

Something closed back of Dirck's calm blue eyes. "I think you'll be safe," he said quietly. "And there are two of you in there."

The assurance that Dirck would be within call made me feel a little better. But after the men left with Mary Ann, who was pouting childishly over Dirck's remark, I locked the door securely this time, thinking what a futile gesture it was. Whoever got into my room before would doubtless manage it again even if the door were locked.

I undressed again, hoping that it would be the last time for one night. And then I sat down at the desk and tried to think up another list of questions. There was so much that I didn't understand; in fact everything and everyone mixed up in the murder seemed to have no rhyme nor reason, so I had a hard time getting my thoughts into any constructive shape.

Finally, after what seemed to be a long time, I scribbled down some questions:

Did the necklace used to strangle Joan Kent come from Tim Lathrop?

How did the street door happen to be unlocked at a quarter of 11?

Are Adrianne Wells and Kincaid telling the truth about the quarrel in the hall?

And at the bottom of the sheet I wrote:

Who took my list of questions?

A Crash

By the time I'd finished I was exhausted and ready to go to bed. The room was so hot that I had to open a window, and of course all of them stuck. I couldn't budge any, except the only one I didn't want to have open, and that was the one overlooking the fire escape.

The fresh paint on the window casings seemed to act like cement. So, praying under my breath, I pushed the window up about a foot. The night was clear and not nearly as cold as earlier in the evening, and there was a moon lighting an apparently peaceful world.

A person's capacity for fear must be almost limitless. As I dozed off it seemed to me after all that had happened I must, by this time, be shock proof. The thought was comforting enough at least to allow me to drop off into a light sleep.

But my theory was blasted within an hour.

I awakened, for no reason apparently, except that I felt a tenseness in the air, the way it is in the summer before a thunderstorm. Lying there stiffly, I strained my eyes towards the fire escape.

And then came the crash that almost made my heart stop beating.

It sounded as though something heavy came hurtling through the open window and broke into a thousand pieces on the floor.

It must have been a couple of minutes before I pulled myself together enough to get out of bed. How I finally moved I'll never know. The sheets, when I pushed them back, seemed to crackle like paper in the hush that followed the crash.

Groping across the cold floor on all-fours, I tapped on the pipe three times with the heel of one of my red leather mules. It sounded loud enough to wake the dead.

I crouched in the corner waiting for the answer.

It did not come. There was no sound from the room above me.

Strangely enough my first reaction was not of fright. I clung feverishly to the idea that both of the men must be sound asleep. So I clutched the slipper again and banged this time even louder and more urgently.

I waited there in the dark, my hands pressed against the cold floor to steady myself. It seemed more like hours than seconds.

Still there was no answer from the third floor. There was nothing but an awful engulfing silence.

What had happened to Dirck and Richard?

Surely one of them would have wakened the second time if they hadn't heard me before.

The third time I rapped I knew, fearfully now, that it was useless.

Either there was no one up in that apartment or something had happened to them.

A Faint

I tried to think what to do next and finally forced myself to crawl across the floor to the window.

On the small rug below the sill my hands closed on moist earth. Moist earth and sharp, jagged fragments of pottery.

Toby's large pot of geraniums, that I'd forgotten to take off the window sill before I went to bed, was broken. That was the noise I'd heard.

But how could it have happened? There wasn't a breath of air stirring, out even enough to move the curtains, and the jar was very heavy.

I was certain it couldn't possibly have blown off onto the floor.

Cautiously I got up and with my body wrapped in the chintz curtain I peered out of the window. For a moment, blinking in the dark, I couldn't see a thing.

After a moment there came a muffled sound from below. Fearfully, I stained my eyes downward and in the yard I saw two figures moving about and heard footsteps scraping on the cement walk. As I bent forward one figure seemed to look up towards my window and, in a muffled voice, called my name.

Afterwards all I could remember was that I recognized the voice so it must have been the great relief I felt that made me faint, much to my shame, for the first time in my life.

When I came to in a pool of mud and water and red geraniums, the lights were on and Dirck and Richard were kneeling beside me, pouring water all over my yellow pajamas and the remnants of the plant.

"Thank God, you're all right!" Dirck said in a choky voice. "Chris, I'll never forgive myself for frightening you so badly."

"I couldn't even give him a reassuring answer. My voice was lost somewhere down in my chest.

He helped me crawl out of the debris. My pajamas were plastered to my skin, and with eyes averted he handed me my bathrobe. I tried to laugh and failed miserably. And when with Richard's help they finally got me into a chair and closed and locked the window, I managed to summon voice enough to ask what had happened.

They shook their heads, refusing to speak. Richard pulled a blanket off the couch and wrapped it around me, while Dirck mopped up the water and did a gentleman's best cleaning up the bits of broken pottery and geraniums.

"We'll talk later," Dirck said. "You're as white as a sheet. Have you any whisky or brandy upstairs, Richard?"

Richard brightened. "A bottle of cognac. It wouldn't hurt any of us to have a drink."

"That's swell. Will you get it? We've got to get her back on her feet."

I looked down at my drenched pajamas. "You go, too, Dirck. I've got to climb out of these things or I'll mildew."

"Take it easy now, Miss Howarth," he smiled. "You've had a pretty bad shock."

ALUMNI OF BETHANY TO GATHER THURSDAY

Dinner Will Mark Centennial Of District College

Bethany college alumni of the East Liverpool district will give a dinner next Thursday night simultaneously with programs in some 40 centers throughout the nation.

Grads of the Bethany, W. Va., institution will be celebrating the 100th anniversary of the college and officially open its centennial project—a movement for a $400,000 building and improvement fund.

The East Liverpool dinners will be held in the Mary Patterson memorial at 6:30, Sidney C. Porter, district centennial chairman, said. Mrs. O. C. Vodrey is co-chairman.

The dinner meetings will be in the form of "radio reunions," as Dr. Wilbur H. Cramblet, president of the college, will address the far-flung sons and daughters of Bethany over station WWVA at Wheeling.

Speaking at 6:30 he will outline the objectives of the centennial year, foremost of which is the $200,000 Alexander Campbell memorial library, in honor of the 18th century religious reformer who founded the college.

The college chorus of 25 voices under the direction of Prof. C. Rush Carter, head of the music department, will sing a program of favorite Bethany songs.

Rev. Allen S. Fields is chairman of the Hancock county district.

DOCTORS stress remaining in bed until the body temperature is normal. Sound advice.

You know how weak you feel after a cold. Colds play havoc in weakening the body. The story is well told in the blood picture. It is important to build back body strength right away to carry the load of work, worries, and loss of sleep. A weakened body may be more susceptible to relapse or long drawn out recovery.

So reason sensibly and take the choice of millions by immediately starting on a course of S.S.S. Tonic — taken three times a day immediately before meals. In the absence of a focal infection or organic disease, you should note improvement in the way you feel and look within the first 10 days. The confidence of millions over many years is the best testimonial of this product.

DON'T OVERCOOK BABY'S FOOD

NEVER overcook vegetables for children. Cook just until tender. Some vegetables may even be served raw, finely ground or grated. In cooking vegetables use as little water as possible and if there is any left when completely cooked use it for making soups. Vegetables should be simply prepared—creamed or merely seasoned with a little salt or butter.

DESSERT, COFFEE PARTIES ADVISED

Serve The Purpose, And At Same Time Guard Budget

If the budget won't budge, if you haven't the facilities to dine a crowd of guests, if the whole idea of a large dinner is just too much for you—then make it a "coffee and dessert" party!

Ask your guests to join you at your house as soon as they finish dining—and don't forget to tell them they can skip their own dessert course. Serve freshly-brewed coffee as the guests arrive and do it informally. They'll take care of the rest! It's new, it's smart and a grand opportunity for a real "get-together". It doesn't have to be late—just an informal hour or two.

Coffee Is Whole Show

Of course, the coffee is the whole show and it must be perfection. Serve cake, pie, pudding, ice cream or your own special dessert pride, but be sure the coffee is fresh, hot and strong enough. Those three requirements make up the "coffee law" for any kind of party with any kind of coffee—drip, percolator, vacuum-made or the plain old-fashioned coffee pot variety. Make it one heaping tablespoon of coffee to each measuring cup of water for regular brew and double it for demi-tasse.

"Coffee and dessert" parties are an easy road to entertaining success with plenty of the nation's favorite beverage to keep them going and delicious desserts to complete the picture. Recipes like these are real party insurance — there's coffee flavor in 'em!

Coffee-Mallow Whip

16 marshmallows
½ cup double-strength freshly-made coffee
½ cup heavy cream
¼ cup chopped Brazil nuts

Cut marshmallows in quarters. Add hot coffee and let stand until marshmallows are dissolved partially and the mixture is lumpy. Set aside to cool. Beat cream until stiff and fold into cooled marshmallow mixture. Turn into individual serving dishes and sprinkle with chopped Brazil nuts. Makes 4 servings.

Coffee Cream Puffs

½ cup butter
¾ cup double-strength, freshly-made coffee
¼ cup boiling water
1 cup sifted flour
4 eggs

Melt butter in boiling coffee and water. Add flour and cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture leaves the side of the pan. Remove from heat, add eggs, one at a time, beating until perfectly blended after each addition. Drop by spoonfuls on baking sheet and bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate and bake 30 minutes longer. Cool, split and fill as desired. Approximate yield: 12 large cream puffs.

Hot Cross Bun Traced To Festive Tables Of Greeks' Ancient Gods

How did the Hot Cross bun originate? Nobody knows exactly, but there are records telling how Cecrops, the first King of Attica, offered something like it to the ancient Greek gods in 1,000 B. C.

The word "bun" itself comes from the early Greek "boun", a sweet type of bread that was marked with a cross and offered to the gods at their feast. Archeologists, who actually unearthed some of these buns, petrified by an eruption of Mt. Vesuvius, explain that the cross was used as a sacred symbol from the earliest recorded times of the Egyptians. The Greeks adopted it for their own food offerings and today, in museums, you can see Hot Cross buns depicted on early Grecian works of arts.

The Hot Cross bun in England was believed to hold a charm. In the old days, the gentry saw to it that a Hot Cross bun was hung in the chimney place on Good Friday and left there throughout the year. This was supposed to bring good luck by preventing evil spirits from descending the chimney to ruin bread baking and cause other domestic troubles.

Cut Up Small Pickles

An easy and attractive garnish for the platter of cold cuts or a sandwich plate, is made by cutting small cucumber pickles in thin slices from one end almost to the other. Spread the slices to form a fan.

LAST-MINUTE FUSS SHOULD BE AVOIDED

Angel Cake Declared 'Tops' For Your Party Food

When you must be maid and hostess, too, there's only one way to make sure that you will enjoy your own party. Plan ahead, and choose a menu that will require little last-minute fuss and preparation.

The hostess we all admire and envy, too, is the one who can greet her guests in a calm, unruffled fashion, secure in the knowledge that every tiny detail has been attended to, that linen, silver and china are ready to use; that dainty and delicious food needs only a few last-minute touches; that garnishes are arranged, and that there's no chance for anything to go wrong!

Angel Food cake is probably "tops" in party foods. Your modern oven maintains the low, even heat required for the tender delicate, and moist Angel Food we like, so why not make one for your next party?

Prize Angel Food Cake

Fruit filled Angel Food is particularly delicious for a party. To make it, bake your favorite Angel Food and when the cake has cooled, separate into 2 layers, using a fork. Spreak with whipped cream fruit filling and put layers together again. Frost with remaining whipped cream fruit filling.

Whipped Cream Fruit Filling

½ pint heavy cream
2 tablespoons sugar
½ cup fruit (crushed)

Whip the cream until stiff; then fold in sugar and fruit.

OHIO COLLEGE SQUADS ENTER HOME STRETCH IN BASKETBALL DERBY

40 Games Listed On Heavy Bill As Leaders Battle To Retain Top Spot—Carroll Seen As 'Giant Killer' After Dumping Irish—Scots Still Dominate

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Feb. 19—Ohio's collegiate basketeers roar into the home stretch of the 1939-40 race today with pace-setting Wooster facing a pair of tough opponents.

Forty contests, including two in the Big Ten, 14 in the Ohio conference and 14 with out-of-state foes, are on the week's program.

John Carroll of Cleveland, which meets Wooster, Friday, may stage a "giant killer" act. Notre Dame defeated John Carroll 46 to 27 at South Bend Saturday night. A loss to Carroll would just about wreck Wooster's championship hopes in both the Ohio loop and statewide races which the Scots now are leading.

In addition to John Carroll, Wooster meets Mt. Union Wednesday night. Muskingum, runner-up in the conference scrap, meets Denison and Case this week, and either is capable of giving the Muskies a real scrap.

Ohio university, which hopped from sixth to second place in the state-wide standings last week with victories over Muskingum and Xavier, has three contests on tap this week. The Bobcats meet Miami, Cincinnati and Ohio Wesleyan, with the latter club the greatest threat. Wesleyan scored a last-minute bucket Saturday to beat Miami, blasting that club out of second place.

Buckeye clubs have played out-of-state quintets 195 games this season and the Ohioans hold a slight edge, having won 99 while losing the other 96.

The week's schedule:

Tonight: Ashland (Ky.) at Rio Grande, Michigan Western State at Toledo, Ohio State at Northwestern.

Tuesday: Wittenberg at Dayton, Hiram at Ashland, Capital at Heidelberg, Denison at Muskingum, Kent State at Bowling Green, Ohio Northern at Findlay, Kenyon at Otterbein, Miami at Ohio U., Giffin at Anderson, Tri-State at Defiance, St. Francis at Youngstown, Wilmington at Cedarville.

Wednesday: Wooster at Mount Union, Case at John Carroll, Wilmington at Ohio Northern.

Salem Scores Easy 45 To 22 Victory Over Wellsville Five

Wellsville slipped another notch in county competition Saturday when Salem cagers bagged the Bengals, 45-22, at Salem. It was Wellsville's second defeat in four county engagements.

Salem started slowly with an 8-5 advantage and then boosted its lead to 19-11 at the half and 32-22 at the end of the third.

Salem reserves walloped Wellsville, 27-18, in the preliminary.

Salem will entertain Boardman Tuesday and then play its last regularly-scheduled game at Struthers Friday. Wellsville's lone activity this week will be tonight at Toronto. The game originally was scheduled for Friday at Wellsville.

Tonight's encounter also will mark the end of the season for Wellsville. Games originally were slated at Bellaire Feb. 27, and with Mingo Junction at Wellsville March 1, but the advancement of the Tiltonsville tourney by one week caused these tilts to be lopped from the card.

SECTIONAL CAGE RACE NEARS END

Collegians Point To Battle For National Honors

By HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 19—A lot of sectional basketball titles will be settled either this week or next, but the race for the national crown is just getting under way.

Conference competition in most sections winds up the first week-end in March. Then comes the national collegiate A. A. tourney to decide the successor to Oregon as national champion, a few invitation tournaments and the national A. A. U. event.

Oklahoma Aggies 'Comfortable'

About the only team that can feel really comfortable is Oklahoma A. and M. Hank Iba's Cowboys clinched at least a tie for the Missouri Valley conference crown by trimming Drake 52-34 last Saturday for their ninth conference victory, their 21st straight this season and their 45th in a row on their home court.

Duke hardly can be beaten out of first place in the Southern conference, having lost only one of 13 loop games.

Oregon State, far in front in the Northern division of the Pacific Coast conference, can clinch another title by beating Oregon's 1939 national champs Friday.

Trojans Favored

In the Southern section Southern California's Trojans need only to beat Stanford to settle things beyond doubt.

Other sectional leaders, most of which have a good piece to go before they can claim 1940 titles, are:

East: League, Dartmouth, 7-1; independent, New York university, 15-0; Big Ten, Purdue, 6-1; Big Six, Missouri, 7-1; Southwest conference, Rice, 7-2; Big Seven, Colorado, 8-1. Missouri and Rice are newcomers at the top, displacing Oklahoma and Texas last week.

NEWTON FALLS NIPS LISBON CAGERS, 28-25

Special To The Review.

LISBON, Feb. 19 — Lisbon High cagers today prepared for their season's completion next week-end after dropping a hard-fought contest to Newton Falls here Saturday night, 28-25.

Although the invader led, 7-5, in the first period, the county seaters opened a scoring barrage to lead, 16-12, at the half. Newton Falls rallied in the third, however, to take a 22-18 lead.

Wolf led the visitors with 12 points, while Robinson's 7 were high for Lisbon.

Lisbon will travel to Louisville Friday and close its regular season Saturday by entertaining East Liverpool.

Newton Falls also won the reserve game, 37-28.

REPELS WELLS, 53 TO 43; TAKES ON LISBON AND PALESTINE THIS WEEK

Duffy, Robinson, Ward And Kinsey Feature As Locals Retaliate For Previous Reversal At Steubenville; Mike Tops Scorers In Hard-Fought Contest

By FLOYD E. WEIDMAN
The Review Sports Editor

Take 900 roaring fans, add a generous portion of Don Duffy, Howard Robinson, Wayne Ward and Jay Kinsey, a fat pinch of Eddie Mike and some nifty playing and you have a rough idea of the basketball game here Saturday night in which the Potters whipped Steubenville Wells 53-43, in a return encounter.

The team matched shot for shot for the first quarter and then the Blue and White — like a wrestler who found the key hold—threw the Big Red with a scoring splurge that netted 14 points in the second frame to build up a 31-19 margin at the half—a lead the capable foe never overcame.

Like whirling dervishes, Duffy, Robinson, Ward and Kinsey pirouetted around the court shooting from all angles to rack up an aggregate of 39 points—11 each for Robinson, Ward and Kinsey, and 9 for Duffy.

Mike Scores 15 Points

And adding to the action was Eddie Mike, the fleet forward who single-handedly turned back the Potters, 39-35, at Steubenville two weeks ago. A dangerous man on the loose, Mike's uncanny aim netted him a total of 15 points to lead all scorers.

But, while all this scoring was going on, Duffy, also was turning in the best defensive performance of the game. Not only did he hold Dave Adams to a field goal and two fouls, but time after time made shambles of Big Red offensive drives by taking the ball from the defensive backboard and working it into the clear.

To a large measure Duffy's work was responsible for the Big Red slowing to a walk in the second and third frames after following close on Potter heels in the opening stanza.

Score Tied Only Once

Only once was the score tied—in the first minute when Lawrence Hadobas matched Kinsey's opening field goal. Kinsey also broke the knot with a free toss. Then Ward and Jim Mackey added a field goal apiece before Ted Satula counted on two fouls to make the score 6-4. Ward brought the Potter margin to 8-4 and then Nick Goich, who not only shined defensively for the Big Red, but also followed Mike with 11 points, made the count 8-6.

Duffy, Mackey and Kinsey each contributed a goal before Satula naimed another free toss. And then, in the oddest play of the game Mike made a bucket for Liverpool!

Duffy, Satula Convert Fouls

Then Duffy and Satula counted on double foul shots to put the score at 17-8. Mike made his scoring debut with a barrage of field goals that brought his mates within 4 points of the Potters, 17-13, as the period ended.

Robinson opened the second frame with two field goals and from then until the fourth period the Potters dominated. Steubenville caged only two field goals and a brace of fouls in the period. Habobas and Goich converted the charity tosses, while Tony Tocasio, subbing for Hadobas, and Mike nailed the goals as the half closed.

Mike broke through Potter defenses for two buckets from the pivot and a point from the foul line as the third frame started. Torcasio followed with a field goal but Ward and Duffy countered with two goals and a foul and the Potters went ahead to lead 40-29 as the third stanza closed.

Goich Goes To Fore

Goich took up the scoring cudgel in the finale, making three goals and two fouls as the Big Red rolled up 14 points in an effort to nullify the Potters' early lead. Robinson, however, matched Goich's performance to keep the Potters in the game.

Also contributing to the Potter victory were Substitutes Frank Bennett, Don Heddleston, Lawrence Bruno and Norman Bucher. All but Bucher, who took Duffy's place in the last minute, got into the game in the first half.

Bennett, who played virtually all of the game, tallied 5 points, one under Mackey's 6. Bennett made his last points on a field goal shortly after he and Torcasio had ended the third period by shooting on a double foul. Neither converted his free toss.

Big Red Lauded

All in all, it was one of the finest exhibitions of basketball here this season. In every respect, Steubenville stamped itself as a well-coached, level-headed aggregation, asking no quarter and giving none. It will be hard to beat at Tiltonsville.

For the Potters the game marked a fitting prelude to their season's finales this week at Lisbon and East Palestine. They will invade the Bulldog's bailiwick Friday night and go to the county seat Saturday.

The following week will see the Potters at Tiltonsville for the valley sectional meet, slated for Feb. 29, March 1 and 2.

Death Of Mother Keeps Cartledge At Steubenville

Coach Charley "Punque" Cartledge did not accompany the Big Red here Saturday night due to the death of his mother, Mrs. George Cartledge, 74.

Mrs. Cartledge suffered a paralytic stroke Friday afternoon at 4 and died six hours later.

In addition to her husband and Coach Cartledge, Mrs. Cartledge, a life-long resident of Steubenville, leaves two sons and four daughters. Joseph is city auditor of Steubenville and Thomas is deputy auditor of Jefferson county.

Three daughters are married.

LOCAL FROSH LOSE, RESERVES TRIUMPH IN CURTAIN-RAISERS

EAST LIVERPOOL High school teams Saturday night shared spoils with Steubenville fives in preliminaries to the Potter-Big Red varsity encounter here. Potter frosh lost to Grant Junior High, 37-28, while Liverpool reserves avenged their 30-15 loss at Steubenville by roundly thrashing Wells' seconds, 24-8.

Grant, winner in 35 of its last 37 games, fought on an even basis with the Potters for the first half and then laid to with a will in the final stanzas to settle the issue.

With Tucker in the starring role, Grant took a 7-6 first-period lead only to watch the Potters knot the count at 13-all in the second. However, the invader scored 12 points in each of the last two frames, while the Potters made an aggregate of 15.

Tucker had 11 points, while Buxton's 8 were high for Liverpool.

In the reserve encounter, Liverpool held the Stubs scoreless until the last half minute of the second quarter when Bernard Hadobas' foul shot broke the spell. The Big Red failed to make its first field goal until midway in the third period.

Brown's 9 points led the Potters as they built up quarter leads of 7-0, 9-1 and 16-4. Albert Schaeffer followed with three field goals. Hadobas did best for Steubenville with 6 points.

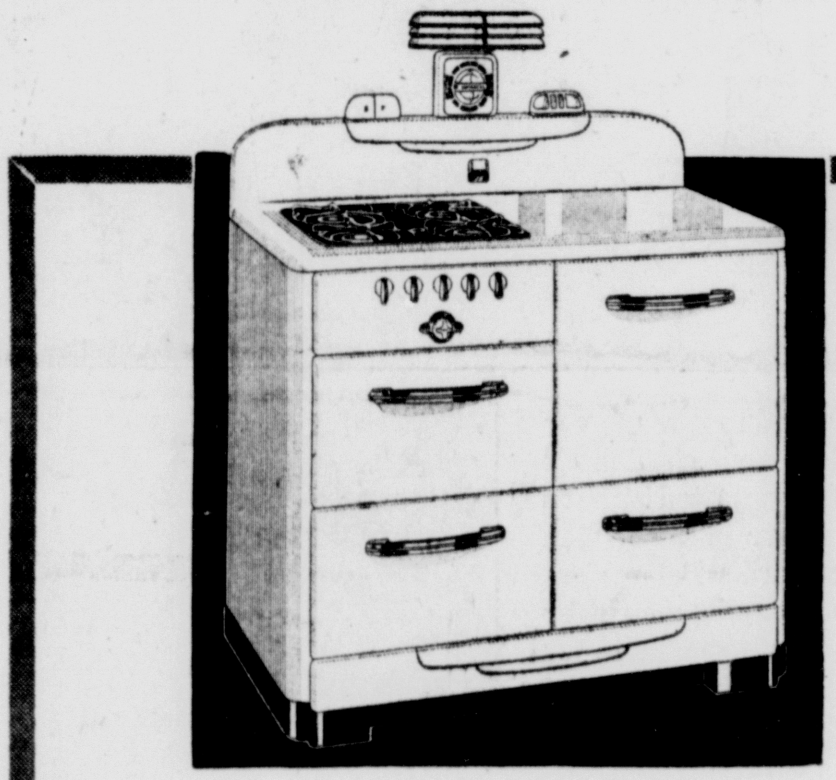
What Every Housewife Wants

. . . . . that will please her family most!

It takes a versatile housewife to perform the "thousand and one" duties required every day to make a house a home. Until modern science took the housewives' problems in hand most of these duties were connected with the kitchen. Three times a day meal preparation was a monotonous job. It demanded physical effort and mental worry, constant watching and no end of fussing to set the family down to an appetizing meal. But today, with the aid of modern science, all this has been changed. The gas range in particular has been perfected to a point that would have seemed imposssibe a few years ago . . . and specifically, the Universal C-P Gas Range today is the ultimate in modern cookery. It's 22 points of superiority shoulder the cooking responsibilities of the modern housewife . . . and give her more leisure time to spend as she pleases.



UNIVERSAL C-P Gas Range

(Certified Performance)

The Universal C-P Gas Range is the "last word" in modern cooking appliances. It guarantees new cooking perfection plus new convenience and new economy throughout every phase of use. It is completely automatic. These beautifully styled Universal Ranges present to the Homemaker a modern cooking appliance that will prove a revelation as to its convenience, economy and beauty. Embodying every advanced device, they promote the interest of the "lady who cooks", because they are built to render a service that not only establishes a new and higher standard of controlled cooking performance, but also show a definite tangible saving in time, food and fuel.

See the UNIVERSAL GAS RANGE DEMONSTRATED at the COOKING SCHOOL

Mrs. Emily M. Lautz
Cooking School Instructor

Mrs. Emily M. Lautz, instructor of home economics at the cooking school, praises the new C-P Universal Gas Range: "It makes it possible for the Homemaker to prepare meals in comfort. The heavily insulated Precision Oven not only economizes on fuel, but keeps the heat in the oven — out of the kitchen. The greatest boon, however, to kitchen comfort is the Universal Simmer-Save burner with its controlled boiling heat. Simmer-Save eliminates pot-watching; thus the Homemaker is not confined to the kitchen during meal preparation. The steam is retained within the cooling vessel; therefore, excess heat moisture and humidity are reduced to the minimum. The modern Universal Gas Range will prove a revelation in cooking comfort as well as cooking convenience. There are 22 points of superiority embodied in the new C-P (Certified Performance) Range."
